WOMAN, AS NIECE OF CAMPBELL, PLANS WILL SUIT

William H. Harrison of Cincinnati Announces His Wife and Her Brother, of Chicago, Propose to Claim Rights in Estate of St. Louis Millionaire.

WIDOW DENIES THERE IS SUCH A NIECE

Sister of Late Financier Also Says There Is No Such Relative Named Harrison —Inventory of $20,000,000 Estate Being Made.

Mrs. Florence A. Campbell of 2 Westmoreland place, widow of James Campbell, Friday afternoon said Campbell had no niece in Cincinnati or elsewhere named Mrs. William H. Harrison. This assertion followed the receipt of press telegrams early in the day in which it was said that William H. Harrison, president of the Cincinnati Awning Co., had given out an interview in which he said his wife, Campbell's niece, and her brother, a Chicago man, were planning to contest the will by which Campbell left his estate in trust for St. Louis University, with his widow and daughter getting the income during their lives.

Mrs. Rose Virginia Curtis of 2641 Nebraska avenue, Campbell's sister, also said Campbell had no niece named Harrison.

"There Is no Such Niece."

When a reporter called the Campbell home on the telephone a servant answered and said she would ask Mrs. Campbell about Mrs. Harrison of Cincinnati.

A few minutes later the servant returned to the telephone and said: "There is no such niece."

The information was similarly conveyed by a servant at Mrs. Curtis' home. The servant said Mrs. Curtis was ill and could not talk to a reporter.

In a news dispatch from Cincinnati Harrison was quoted as saying: "My wife proposes to act with her brother in bringing a suit to claim her interest in the Campbell estate."

Basis of Suit not Decided.

Harrison said the prospective contestants had not decided on what ground they would sue, but they probably would allege that Campbell was of unsound mind or that he was unduly influenced when he made his will. As an instance of mental incapacity, he said, they might point to the fact that Campbell made a provision by which his daughter Lois was to be cut off with $1 if her mother should refuse to accept the terms of the will.

Harrison said a conference of attorneys would be held to decide what action should be taken and that as a result of this conference a suit attacking the will might be filed in the St. Louis courts.

MAKING CAMPBELL ESTATE INVENTORY

John P. Newell and Douglas Sachse First Will Open Safe Deposit Vault.

The preparation of an inventory of the late James Campbell's estate was begun Friday by John P. Newell and Douglas Sachse, appointed for that work by the Mercantile Trust Co., executor and trustee of the estate. Irvin V. Barth, former Circuit Judge, is acting as their counsel.

Pending the completion of the inventory, the accepted estimate of the value of the estate is $20,000,000 or more. Its income is to go to Mrs. Campbell and her daughter, Lois, during their lives, and to the daughter's heir or heirs, if she leaves any, until 21 years after her death, and is then to pass to St. Louis University, for its hospital and medical department.

It was understood that the first thing done by the examiners would be to open Campbell's safe deposit vault and inspect the contents. The papers to be found in safe deposit, it is believed, will give an index to the nature and location of all Campbell's holdings, and to some extent will indicate their value.

Tax Return $2,888,270.

As the date of Campbell's death, June 12, was after the date which serves as a basis for tax returns, namely June 1, his city and State taxes for this year will have to be assessed as if he were living. One of the duties of the executor will be to submit to the City Assessor an affidavit covering all Campbell's real and personal property taxable in St. Louis as held by him June 1.

Campbell's last return for real and personal property taxable in St. Louis, representing his holdings on June 1, 1912, was $2,888,270.

No part of the Campbell estate will escape taxation because of the provisions of his will, giving it ultimately to St. Louis University. So long as it remains in the hands of the trustees, for the benefit of the heirs, it will be taxed like any other estate. F. J. Spindler, Chief Deputy Assessor, and Frank H. Hasking, attorney for City Collector Koeln, concurred in this statement.

BIG BLAST SHAKES TOWN

New Fuse Sets Off 30,000 Sticks of Dynamite.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., June 19.—Allentown was shaken last night by a great blast, when 30,000 sticks of dynamite, buried 105 feet deep in 28 holes, loosened at least 150,000 tons of slate rock.

The blast was a test of a new instantaneous fuse with a speed of 1800 feet a second. It is said to have been the first time it has been used in the United States, it having been heretofore employed principally in submarine work and at Panama.

USED PEAS AS SIGNAL

Man Declares Woman Neighbor Lured Wife Away.

The shooting of peas against the window of his home as a signal for his wife to answer telephone calls at the house of a neighbor is the principal allegation in George A. Kelly's cross bill to the divorce suit filed by Mrs. Ruby E. Kelly of 5601A Theodosia avenue.

Kelly objected to his wife's association with a woman of the neighborhood in which they lived, he avers. To deceive him, he says, his wife and the neighbor invented the pea-shooting scheme.

BOY, VACCINATED WEEK AGO, DIES OF MALARIA FEVER

Illness Weakened Heart Action of Philip Rohn, 9, East Side Pupil.

NO INQUEST IS HELD

Physician Says Patient Would Have Recovered but for Two Fevers.

A slight attack of malaria, coming when the fever usually following vaccination was in progress, produced complications that caused the death of 10-year-old Philip Rohn, a schoolboy, who died at the home of his parents, 734 North Eighth street, East St. Louis, Thursday morning. He had been vaccinated last Friday, with other school children, on order of the Board of Health.

Dr. Jacob Butler, 1827 Missouri avenue, who vaccinated the boy, said he only attended him once between the vaccination and his death. That was Wednesday night.

"The boy's fever had risen from the customary temperature of a vaccinated person—about 101—to 104. He coughed, and showed a few other symptoms of la grippe. He, evidently, had contracted malaria. I examined the vaccination mark and it was in good condition.

"The combination of the vaccination fever and the malaria nauseated him, and he vomited excessively. I treated him and departed. The family called me Thursday morning between 3 and 4 o'clock, but the boy was dead when I arrived.

"I made an examination and found that a gastric condition, caused by the two fevers, had affected his heart action and resulted in death.

"If it had not been for the slight attack of malaria, coming at this particular time, he probably would have suffered few ill effects from the vaccination. The malaria by itself probably would not have been serious."

More than 7000 other school children have been vaccinated within the last three weeks, but no other serious effects have been reported.

Philip Rohn will be buried Sunday afternoon.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR LORIMER BANK; BOND $2,500,000

W. C. Niblack Appointed by Court; Prosecutor Awaits Attorney-General's Orders.

GRAND JURY IS PROBABLE

Director Whose $169,000 Note Was Found in Vault Denies He Got the Loan.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 19.—The La Salle Street Trust & Savings Bank, which was closed by a State bank examiner last week, was placed in the hands of a receiver today. W. C. Niblack, vice-president of the Chicago Title & Trust Co., was named for the position by Judge Windes, who placed his bond at $2,500,000.

The closing of this bank was followed by the closing of a number of smaller institutions linked with the Lorimer-Munday bank.

The petition for a receiver was filed by Patrick J. Lucey, Attorney-General of Illinois. Lucey said that if developments warranted grand jury proceedings might be looked for.

Bank "Hopelessly Insolvent."

Lucey asserted that the La Salle Street Trust and Savings Bank was "hopelessly insolvent."

"What are the assets?" asked the Court.

"They are actually $4,000,000; with certain questionable assets, they amount to $5,000,000."

Charles E. Ward, whose name was signed to a personal unsecured note for $169,925 found among the bank's assets, asserted today that he never borrowed the money. Ward was Lorimer's private secretary when the former occupied a seat in the United States Senate. He was a director of the bank.

Maclay Hoyne, State's Attorney for Cook County, declared that with reference to possible prosecutions he put himself at the disposal of the Attorney-General. A special grand jury or a formal inquiry by the receiver were methods canvassed by the Attorney-General.

"There is no hurry about such action," he said, "the receiver will be in the best position to judge."

Munday's Bank at Bethalto Closed by State Examiner.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 19.—The Farmers' Bank of Bethalto, Madison County, was closed today by John J. Scullens, a State Bank Examiner, on orders from State Auditor Brady. The bank had requested that an examiner be sent to investigate the institution.

The closing, according to Brady, was a precautionary measure, as reports showed the institution to be in good condition. C. B. Munday was president of the bank until a week ago.

Judge Humphrey of the United States District Court appointed the Sangamon Loan and Trust Co. receiver for C. B. Munday & Co. of Litchfield. Application for the receivership was made by members of the company.

BOY, 9, HURT IN FIRST FIREWORKS ACCIDENT

Lighted Firecracker Thrown by Companion Burns Melmen Cmas' Leg.

With the Fourth of July more than two weeks away, the first of this year's fireworks accidents was reported Thursday night. Emil Huesmann, 10 years old, of 1624 South Broadway, threw a lighted firecracker at Melman Cmas, 9 years old, of 223 Soulard street. The firecracker sizzled its way through Melman's shirt and knickerbockers and burned him on the right leg.

His parents refused to prosecute Huesmann, who was taken to the Soulard Street Station, where he was reprimanded by Acting Lieutenant Meehan, and told not to do it again.

GIRL SEEKS DIPTHERIA SERUM; DIES OF DISEASE

Young Experimente. Had Been Working Eight Months on an Antitoxin.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Miss Marion C. Mable, 20 years old, died yesterday at her home in New Rochelle of diphtheria, a disease she had been working for eight months to combat by means of an antitoxin.

Miss Mable became infected with diphtheria germs when experimenting in the laboratories of the Polyclinic Hospital in this city.

Her efforts to perfect an antitoxin or serum which would make persons inoculated with it immune from diphtheria had been closely watched by leading physicians and bacteriologists.

"BARONESS BAB'S" LOVE STORY TOLD IN 76,000 WORDS

Depositions in $2,500,000 Breach of Promise Suit Here Ready for Filing.

INTERPRETER NECESSARY

She Had No Intention of Suing Hurley Until She Consulted a Mr. Hartmann.

Depositions containing 76,000 words of the international love story of the "Baroness" Barbara Ursula von Kalinowski have arrived in St. Louis and are ready for filing in the Federal Court in her $2,500,000 breach of promise suit against Michael J. Hurley, secretary of the Central Paint and Supply Co., with offices in the Railway Exchange Building.

The average love story, as our novels now go, is about 45,000 words, so that the Baroness' love affair is considerable larger in word volume that the ordinary ones of fiction. The 315 typewritten pages, averaging 242 words to the page, consist mainly of testimony given by the "Baroness" herself at a hearing instituted by Hurley in New York. She was on the stand several days.

In her testimony the "Baroness" told in great detail of her meeting with Hurley, her alleged betrothal and her efforts to induce Hurley to keep the marriage promise which she said he made to her.

The "Baroness'" lack of knowledge of the English language made the hearing extremely difficult. This is shown in the text of the deposition, as the stenographer faithfully set down the "Baroness'" answers with the exact construction which she used in giving them. At times it was necessary to employ a German-English interpreter to make the questions clear to the "Baroness" and to make her answers intelligible, but throughout the greater part of the hearing she bravely insisted that only English be used and in several of her answers she boasted that her knowledge of the language was rapidly improving.

Depositions Taken for Hurley.

The depositions were taken in behalf of Hurley, who in his answer to the "Baroness'" petition, set forth she had not the slightest claim on him and alleged that an effort was being made to extort money from him. She followed him to America about a year ago, alleging that he had proposed marriage to her in Paris and had failed to keep his engagement to wed her. He has emphatically maintained that there never was an engagement.

When "Baroness" Kalinowski first appeared to testify before Commissioner Alexander Gilchrist Jr. in New York, she was asked:

"What is your name?" "Ursula Barbara von Kalinowski," she replied.

"Have you any other name?" "Nine others."

"Give all the names you have." "I cannot give them all. Too much."

"Too much trouble?" "No, not too much trouble, but I don't remember all."

"Give all you remember." "Augusta, Elizabeth, Frieda; I don't know any more."

The "Baroness" explained that her original family name was Kalinow von Kalinowski Husiatin, but that the name was dropped in 1300. Asked how the

EX-WIFE LENDS E. D. LUCKEY VALISE FOR A HONEYMOON

Former Principa lof John Marshall School Changed Name to Wed After Divorce.

E. D. MacLuckie, better known to St. Louisans as E. D. Luckey, former principal of the John Marshall School and conductor of European tours, whose marital troubles were aired in the divorce court, paid a friendly visit to his former wife, Mrs. Rebecca A. Luckey, a few days afo, and borrowed a suit case for use on his honeymoon trip to Europe with Mrs. Luckey No. 2, who was Miss Elizabeth S. Reed. The MacLuckies are now in Buffalo on their way to Europe.

The remarriage of the man known here as Luckey and his departure on a wedding trip carrying the borrowed suit case was made known Friday by Mrs. Robert Brinsmade, aunt of Mrs. MacLuckie, who says that the couple were married some months ago at Redding, Conn.

After the Luckeys had been divorced and the school board had failed to reappoint Luckey to the principalship of the Marshall School, he left St. Louis and few here knew where he had gone. One reason was that he had dropped the name by which he was known here and had unearted an old family name MacLuckie. Mrs. Brinsmade says that was formerly the family name but it had been dropped several generations ago.

Miss Reed was formerly a teacher in the Columbia School. She was a member of a party that was piloted on a European trip in 1911 by Luckey. Miss Reed formerly boarded at 4429 Morgan street. She resigned her position last June.

LASCURAIN TO GET POST

MEXICO CITY, June 19.—The opinion prevails in well-informed circles that Pedro Lascurain, who was Mexican Foreign Minister in the administration of the late President Madero, is again to be appointed Foreign Minister.

It is reported that Lascurain at first refused to accept the post, but later was persuaded by friends to do so.

NAON RETURNS TO TELL WILSON THAT MEDIATION FAILS

Argentine Minister Appears Unexpectedly in Washington to Confer With Officials—Hope for Success Is Virtually Abandoned.

Meeting Set for Today in Niagara Falls Postponed Until Envoy Asks President if There Is Reason for Continuing.

American Policy to Sit Tight in Vera Cruz Will Not Be Changed if Negotiations Are Called Off.

By Associated Press.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ontario, June 19.—The mediators announced formally today that no conference would be held until tomorrow, because Minister Naon of Argentina had gone to Washington. It is understood that he seeks to learn first hand if the American Secretary of State has any information that would seem to make it advisable to continue the conference.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Romulo S. Naon, Minister from Argentina and one of the mediators at the Niagara conference, arrived here unexpectedly today. He did not go at once to the legation, but took quarters in a hotel near the White House.

The return of the mediator, undoubtedly for conference with Secretary Bryan or President Wilson, or both, at a time when the Niagara conference is threatened with complete failure, was regarded as significant.

Mr. Naon and Secretary Bryan took luncheon together privately and later the Argentine Minister went to the State Department for a further conference. Neither would make a statement.

Mediation at a Crisis.

The issue of the note of the Mexican delegates by Senor Rabasa and the reply of the American delegates, published last night after it had been approved by President Wilson, admittedly has brought the mediation conference to a point where it generally is expected to fail unless one side gives way. The Huerta delegates, standing firm for the selection of a "neutral" for the provisional presidency, and the American delegates, no less firm that the new executive shall be one fully approved by the Constitutionalists, are confronted with a situation which only a modification of demands on one side can ameliorate.

The general belief was that Mr. Naon had returned to Washington to use his efforts with the President and the Secretary of State to prevent a break. It was among the possibilities, too, that he might personally present the names of some of the men suggested for the presidency of Mexico. Almost at the hour of Mr. Naon's arrival a long message was received at the White House from the American delegates. Secretary Bryan, after its receipt, said he understood there would be a meeting in Niagara Falls at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The Cabinet assembled at the White House as the news of Minister Naon's return became known. Evidently none of the other members had heard the news officially, for they received it with expressions of surprise and great interest. It had been planned to give over the entire meeting to the discussion of the Mexican situation.

To See Bryan Today.

After a short stay at his hotel, Minister Naon went to the Argentine legation. He said he did not expect to have any conferences there, but planned to see Secretary Bryan later today.

When shown a dispatch from Niagara Falls, saying he had come to ask Secretary Bryan if officials here had any information which would seem to make it advisable to continue the Niagara conference, Mr. Naon said:

"You had better be satisfied with that, at this time. There is nothing I can say."

Although the leading agents of the Constitutionalist Junta here, including those with whom the American delegates conferred at Buffalo were in the same hotel with Mr. Naon, it was said he would have no conferences with them.

Those officials who regard mediation as having definitely failed, looked upon the minister's visit as one of courtesy, to officially notify President Wilson of the deadlock and inquire formally if there is anything further to be laid before the conference before it ends.

Secretary Bryan was more noncommittal than [illegible] he went to the cabinet meeting [illegible] were in timations that some sort of an official announcement might be given out late today.

President Wilson stands squarely on the statement given out at Niagara Falls by the American delegates, and will accept no settlement of the Mexican problem which is not based on the principles outlined therein.

This was made clear today by officials after the President had an early conference with Secretary Bryan. If mediations fails the President plans to issue a statement fully informing the public on the position of the administration and outlining his future course.

The President has no plans for going before Congress with any phase of the Mexican question, and all talk of further armed intervention is groundless at the present time, according to officials in close touch with the situation. The same, they say, may be said of reports that the United States plans to recognize Gen. Carranza, Gen. Villa or any other faction in Mexico.

The American policy in Vera Cruz will undergo no change, according to officials. The army will sit tight and wait for Huerta to quit or be vanquished. The seizure of the city was a reprisal for affronts to the flag.

Villa, Again in the Saddle, Pushes Southward.

EL PASO, Tex., June 19.—Gen. Villa will leave Torreon today for the front above Zacatecas. Thus will begin the arrangements made after the conciliation between him and Gen. Carranza, which will allow Villa full command of the zone in which he dominates, and of any further territory which he can take to the south. No announcement has been made concerning the status of Gen. Natera, appointed by Gen. Carranza as head of the central zone, which Villa, by his insistence, has now taken over.

The general plan of the campaign now is along the lines drawn up before Carranza put Natera in command of the new zone. Villa, who has taken Juarez, Ojinaga, Chihuahua City, Gomez Palacio, Torreon and San Pedro in Northern Mexico, all within the last few months, now will have a clear road on to the national capital, so far as Carranza is concerned, according to the arrangements which were made after Villa had tendered his resignation.

Villa to Sweep the Center.

Villa's zone roughly will include Chihuahua and Western Coahuila, which his troops already have taken and any territory directly south which he can capture. Gen. Pablo Gonzales, commander of the Eastern division, will proceed south as best he may along the East coast, investing points to the south of Tampico. Gen. Alvarado Obregon in the west will move along the Pacific seaboard. His troops now are investing Mazatlan.

By reason of geographical separation of these three divisions it is expected that the three leaders will not interfere with one another. Gen. Carranza will remain at Saltillo for the present, directing Obregon and Gonzales, but it is said on authority that Villa as commander of the north and center will work out plans for his own campaign, buy his own supplies and supervise the civil offices and board along his route. He now has a large supply of ammunition which was amplified by the receipt at Torreon of the entire cargo of the steamship Antilla, which unloaded recently at Tampico.

"WHY ARE POLICE NOT RESPECTED AS SOLDIERS?"

Chief Points Out at Convention Patrolmen Give Up Their Lives if Necessary.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 19.—The International Association of Chiefs of Police by acclamation today re-elected Maj. Richard Sylvester of Washington, D. C., president.

Chief J. M. Quigley of Rochester, N. Y., in a paper on "Police and People," asked the question: "Why are not police officers shown the same respect and admiration accorded the soldier?"

"We all recognize that we are not," he continued. "We must risk our lives and if necessary give them up to protect the lives and property of the citizens in the community which we serve.

"For the last two years we have been endeavoring to discover the reason for the general dislike of police officers, and we have found that, although we do at times make enemies because of our duty, yet it is apparent that when we perform our duty honestly, always acting justly and making no discriminations, even those who are disciplined will respect and honor us.

"Where we allow our personal interests to influence our acts we will not be able to command the esteem of those who have appointed us."

TRUCK GARDENER SEIZES BALLOON FLOWN BY BERRY

Albert Von Hoffmann's Gas Bag Held for $120 Damages to John Neider's Produce.

When Capt. John Berry makes a balloon ascension, things begin to happen. What happened Thursday evening, when he took an air ride across the Mississippi, was that an East St. Louis truck gardener, John Nieder of 1415 Cassville avenue, seized the balloon for damages done to his garden in making the landing.

The balloon was the "Aero Club of St. Louis," owned by Albert von Hoffmann. The start was made from Priester's Park, Grand avenue and Meramec street, and Miss Carrie Rochelle, 20 years old, of 4059A Cook avenue, accompanied the aeronaut.

Von Hoffmann followed in an automobile, and after the landing started to take the balloon away. But Nieder confronted him with a demand for $120, which he said represented the damage to his property. Von Hoffmann told Nieder to keep the balloon a while.

AMERICANS' REPLY PUTS MEDIATION AT BREAKING POINT

Is Refusal to Move From Position Taken on Personnel of Provisional President.

NEUTRAL NOT DESIRED

They Declare Mexicans Misinterpret Their Meaning in Demanding an Election.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 19.—With the consent of President Wilson, Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, the American delegates to the mediation conference, gave out last night the American answer to the Mexican statement issued by Senor Rabasa.

The statement "utterly repudiates" the intimation that the President intended to destroy the electoral liberty of Mexico and reiterates that the Constitutionalists must be satisfied in the selection of a Provisional President.

The Mexicans are charged with losing sight of the main issue—peace for Mexico—and their plan is criticised as inadequate.

There are no signs of yielding on either side or that the next full conference, which has been postponed until Saturday, will reach an agreement.

Again today Senor Rabasa repeated his contention that only a neutral could possibly give to Mexico a fair and unbiased election.

Text of the Statement.

When the Americans' statement was shown to Senor Rabasa he said: "The whole difficulty is that the American delegates do not understand conditions in Mexico. If they did they would not make the statement that they now make." The Americans' statement follows:

"The American representatives do not think it is conducive to the interests of mediation to publish during its pendancy the various plans of the contentions of the parties, but as the Mexican representatives have given out a formal statement of their objections to the appointment of a Constitutionalist provisional President, because, among other things, an election conducted by such a provisional government would not represent the will of the Mexican people, it has been thought necessary to give a part of the answer to the letter written by Mr. Rabasa.

"In that answer the American representatives utterly repudiated any suggestion that the American President has any intent of destroying the electoral liberty of Mexico, and insists that the Mexican representatives entirely misunderstood the motives and objects of the President, who recognizes the facts and sees in the past success of the Constitutional army indisputable evidence of the approval of the Mexican people. But he also sees that the full triumph of that army means an indefinite continuance of the war, with the suffering and bloodshed and death which every war involves.

"These consequences the President seeks to prevent through mediation, but we greatly fear that the language of the Mexican note implies that his efforts may be thwarted because of unwillingness to have a Constutionalist as provisional President, even though that promises the only practicable means by which the horrors of war can be prevented.

"Hope is expressed that the Mexican representatives will not further oppose the only plan which promises peace, when the rejection means suffering and death to so many. We are convinced that your objections to the plan itself and your fear of the ill consequences that may follow its adoption, are not well founded; and that in attacking the details you lose sight of the large and controlling motive, which from the beginning of this trouble has been in the mind of the President and which has influenced the American representatives in all that they have said or proposed to the mediators.'

"The American Government seeks only to assist in securing the pacification of Mexico. It has no special interest in the method or in the person by which that great end is to be accomplished; and if it presses for any particular method, or for the selection of a particular type of men, it is only because it believes them to be the only means to the desired end.

"American objections to the plan approved by the Mexican representatives have been based upon the profound conviction that the adoption of that plan would not stop the progress of the victorious army nor bring that speedy peace which the American Government so sincerely desires.

"It would be easy at this conference to write an agreement, which many would consider desirable, but unless the most excellent of plans and the most excellent of men are accepted by the Constitutionalists we would only have a paper plan, perfect in form, and just in expression, but wholly ineffective to secure peace in war-worn Mexico.

What the President Desires.

"To bring that war to a close, to restore peace and constitutional government is the aim of the President; and that end can only be attained by consulting the just wishes of the Constitutionalists, who are not in numerical majority, but are now the dominant force in the country.

"In answer to the contention that there could be no fair elections conducted by a provisional government of which a Constitutionalist was provisional President, the answer of the Americans calls attention to the fact that in the past the elections in Mexico have been under the supervision of a single Cabinet Minister, representing the dominant party. By analogy the next election should be supervised by only one officer representing the dominant Constitutionalist party. The American plan seeks to avoid the just criticism against that method and contemplates that this, the most important election in the history of Mexico, shall be supervised by the representatives of both parties.

American Proposition.

"It is wholly incorrect to assume that thus supervised it will be unfairly conducted and you may rest assured that all the influence the United States can legitimately use will be exerted to secure an honest election. Indeed, it is the earnest desire of our Government that the permanent President shall be chosen in a manner so free from objection that his title to that high office and the confidence and the respect of his people will be strengthened by the knowledge that he represents their free choice at an election held, not by one party as in the past, but by representatives of both factions.

"It is true that the American plan proposes that a majority of this board shall be Constitutionalists, but that is because they now represent the sentiment of the majority of the people of Mexico, and which, we must insist, has been formulated solely with that end in view. Actuated by these motives, we feel that we may appeal to you, and through you to the other Mexican representatives, to read again our plan in the light of these words."

'DICKIES' KEEP HOT UNIFORMS ON THE ST. LOUIS POLICE

Men Wouldn't Want to Expose False Shirt Fronts, Says President of Board.

MAY UNBUTTON COATS

Patrolmen, However, Say It Is Against Board's Regulations to Do That.

Dickey—A detached linen shirt front, false bosom.—New Standard Dictionary.

Samuel B. McPheeters, President of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, Friday revealed to a Post-Dispatch reporter one reason why the board has not followed the lead of some other cities in the adoption of a feather-weight, light-colored summer uniform for St. Louis policemen.

Whisper! One reason, according to President McPheeters, is that many St. Louis policemen, including even some stalwart members of the traffic squad, wear dickies.

Some Cities Lift the Ban.

News had reached St. Louis that some municipalities, including Dallas, Tex., and Granite City, Ill., had lifted the blockade on summer suits for policemen. In some instances the reform went so far as to authorize the constabulary to discard coats and report for duty in shirtwaist and trousers.

When asked whether the St. Louis Police Commissioners had ever considered the authorization of such sartorial reforms President McPheeters said:

"Yes. The question has been very seriously considered. But we have never received any complaints from our men that their present uniforms are too hot. You see, many of our policemen wear nothing under their coats except their undershirts and a false shirt bosom with a collar attached to it.

"The coats are of extremely light blue serge. Some policemen may wear heavier coats through personal choice, but they are not required to wear them.

"There is no regulation in this department which forbids a policeman to wear his coat unbuttoned—if he has a shirt under it. Any traffic policeman or any other policeman may unbutton his coat in hot weather."

Personally Favors White Uniform.

McPheeters said his personal idea of a perfect summer uniform for policemen would be one made up of white canvas blouse and trousers, white leggings and a white helmet or cap.

"The Board has considered such a uniform," he said, "but the principal objection was that the laundry bills would be too high. It was suggested that in a uniform of that kind the policemen would look like a minstrel band. Probably they would, but I wouldn't object to that so long as they looked cool and comfortable."

McPheeters said the adoption of Palm Beach or white linen uniforms like those authorized in Dallas would call for an open coat, worn without a vest. This, he said, might cause a protest from the men who had been accustomed to wearing their coats buttoned to conceal their false shirt fronts.

MRS. ACRATA SHAW OBTAINS A DIVORCE

St. Louis Woman, Formerly Miss Von Schroder, Gets Absolute Decree in East.

Mrs. Acrata von Schrader Shaw, daughter of Otto U. von Schrader, formerly of 3818 Lindell boulevard, obtained a decree of absolute divorce in Dedham, Mass., Thursday, from Arthur Hunnewell Shaw, according to dispatches. A limited decree was granted last December.

An order for the payment of $12,500 alimony annually was made in December, but the husband has appealed from this part of the judgment. He is the son of Robert Gerald Shaw, one of the wealthiest residents of the Back Bay district in Boston. The Shaw fortune was made in copper mining in Northern Michigan.

Mrs. Shaw's chief charge against her husband was habitual intoxication and the use of drugs. The Shaw-Von Schrader wedding took place in December, 1911, at the Church of the Messiah here, and Miss Isabel Valle, now Mrs. James Hope-Nelson of England, was one of the bridemaids. Shaw was, at that time, a recent graduate of Harvard.

CROWD SEES MAN END LIFE BENEATH A CAR

Albert Zeiser of Dallas, Tex., Jumps in Front of Wheels on Eads Bridge.

A man with letters in his pocket bearing the name Albert Zeiser, Dallas, Tex., threw himself under a slow-moving street car of the East St. Louis & Suburban Railway on the Eads Bridge near the Washington avenue entrance at 5 p. m. Thursday before a crowd of passengers waiting for their cars.

He had been walking up and down the platform by the trolley station for some time. Just as the car neared the station he bowed his head and then threw himself under the wheels. Motorman J. L. Cooper of 473 South Twenty-first street, East St. Louis, was unable to stop the car in time to avoid running over him. The man was taken out dead. He appeared to be 50 years old. Dispatches from Dallas stated that Albert Zeiser had left the city several weeks ago.

New Grade-Crossing Danger.

Elisha Willis, freight conductor for the Frisco, was standing on top of a box car in a train that passed the Tower Grove grade crossing about 1:30 a. m., Friday when an overhead trolley wire caught him on the bridge of the nose and hurled him on his back onto the roof of the car. His [illegible]

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition All Summer

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the heated term. Mixed with prespiration, dust and grime, these things are anything but beautifying. Ordinary mercolized wax will do more for the complexion, and without giving an oily, streaked, spotted or pasty appearance. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of scarf skin which have been soiled by dirt or weather, by constantly keeping the complexion clear, white, satiny, it does more toward perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin from sagging or wrinkling, so as to overcome such conditions, there's nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered [illegible] in a pint [illegible]

MILITANTS FORCE ASQUITH TO GIVE THEM A HEARING

Sylvia Pankhurst's Attempted Hunger Strike on Commons Steps Causes Him to Yield.

VICTORY A DISTINCT ONE

Suffragette Leader, Released for Jail, Drives to Westminster and Starts Vigil.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, June 19.—The most important victory won by the militant suffragettes up to this time is that of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, who has forced Premier Asquith to capitulate.

The Premier gave in in fear that the frail girl would die on the steps of the House of Commons, where she had established herself immediately after coming out of jail. She had been 10 days on hunger strike.

She declared she would continue her strike before the Parliament House until the Premier yielded and agreed to receive a delegation of working women.

The efforts of James Kier Hardie, Socialist Independent member of Parliament, and George Lansbury, former member, also helped the militant suffragette leader to bring the Premier to his knees.

The victory is regarded as a distinct one, because Sylvia Pankhurst was arrested about a week ago for attempting to lead a procession of East End women to Westminster to demand the audience which Asquith now has promised.

Released, Drives to Westminster.

Holloway Jail opened its doors last night to release Miss Pankhurst, who was weak and pale after her eighth successive hunger strike, but still determined. She drove to Westminster immediately in a motor car with a woman chauffeur and rebuffed Kier Hardie's efforts to persuade her to go home. She was sitting on the steps of the central entrance to Parliament House, propped up with cushions and supported in the arms of friends, when Lansbury came out with word that Premier Asquith had surrendered.

The militants' plans were effectively arranged. When their leader emerged from Holloway Jail on the arms of two attendants, a motor car was waiting. Two nurses took charge of her. A group of militants had gathered outside Westminster, and when the car drove up they cried: "Here's Sylvia."

A large force of police was on duty, but, apparently under instructions, they made no objection when the automobile entered the palace yard through the members' private entrance, which always has been forbidden ground to the militants. Crowds began to assemble and the police were reinforced, but they maintained an attitude of watchful waiting.

Kier Hardie emerged from the house with head bared and talked with Miss Pankhurst for three minutes. Then with the Chief of Police Hardie made three journeys between the house and the car.

Seemingly the independent labor members' efforts were a failure, for, after the third conference, Miss Nora Smythe, who was Miss Pankhurst's lieutenant, announced to the bystanders:

"We are going to the House of Commons to sit on the steps."

Premier Soon Gave Decision.

Hardie explained to the crowd that the militant leader had requested admission to the House, which was refused. The car then went to the public entrance of the House of Commons. Women carefully arranged the cushions on the steps and lifted Sylvia out, while the police shoved back the spectators. Miss Pankhurst remained unmolested for 10 minutes, until Lansbury appeared with Premier Asquith's decision.

Miss Pankhurst was carried to her car and driven away, while the people cheered. Hardie later issued a statement that Asquith gave his consent to an audience several hours before Miss Pankhurst visited the palace yard. The statement added that she had not been forcibly fed during her last incarceration because she was too weak. The Premier apparently acted to save her from death by starvation.

Official announcement was made that the Premier had decided to receive the working women some hours before Miss Pankhurst arrived.

Premier and Wife, and Leader of Militants Who Won Hearing

name came to be changed, she said. "That changed my grand-grandfather. It was too long a name."

As to her title of nobility she said she was qualified to call herself a Baroness because her family was so old. As to her father's title she said:

"He is a Baron, yes."

"He was not a Count?" asked W. Christy Bryan of St. Louis, Hurley's counsel. "No, but in Austria he is a Count," she replied.

"Well, he was an Austrian Count serving in the German army?", "No. If he was coming to Austria he is a Count. But he is a German-Prussian officer all his life. He is a Baron and people see always the name is enough."

Explaining that she could not tell the names of her nine god-parents, the Baroness said: "I had all of my papers—my born papers, but I haven't them here."

Father "Aristocratic Figure."

Her description of her father was illuminating.

"Was he tall?" she was asked. "High," she replied.

"Was he stout?" "No, high and small, but not too small. Fine aristocratic figure."

"How tall was he?" "O, he was five foot or six foot. He had many decorations."

"How tall are you?" "I think four or five feet—75 or 76½ mefers."

After telling her family history, the "Baroness" related how she came to St. Louis in search of her "Jimmy."

"What day did you arrive in St. Louis," she was asked. "About 1 o'clock, half-past one," she replied. Later she fixed the date as Aug. 2.

"What did you do in the city of St. Louis?" "I do nothing. I was going to the hospital and would like to see my bridegroom, but he was not there."

"What hospital did you go to?" "The Mullanphy Hospital."

"Who went with you?" "My brother was there."

Telephoned to His Sister.

"You went to the Mullanphy Hospital and did not see Mr. Hurley. Then what did you do?" "I telephoned his sister—he was by his sister—and she told me he was going.' He jumped out of bed and is going to New York.' "

"And what did you do then?"

"I eat and then I say I will take the evening train at 5 or 4 o'clock. But there were no tickets more then and I had to wait until morning 11, 10 or 12 o'clock and then I take the train direct back to New York."

Asked on what day of August she arrived in New York she said: "I think the five. I cannot say it correct."

"Then what did you do?" "I was in my room and then came a woman to me, a Mrs. Bacon."

"You talked with her?" "Yes."

"Did you stay in your room the rest of the day?" "No. I talked with this woman. I am going to the Holland House."

Woman Told Her About Hurley.

"Why did you go to the Holland House?" "Mrs. Bacon, she told me to go. She said she would like to go with me together. I could not go alone. This was the woman told me all this man was doing."

"This man? Do you mean Hurley?" "Yes."

"She told you what Hurley did?" "All about him."

"What time of day was it?" "I don't know, but she was first there. Before I was coming she was in the hotel, and there comes a reporter with a picture and she said 'Is this your bridegroom?' I said 'Yes.' She said, 'This is not your bridegroom.'" I said 'this is my bridegroom.' She said, 'Are you coming?' I said, 'No, I am from the train. I got to dress myself.' But she was so excited on the phone—she come into the room and we had a talk."

Mrs. Bacon's name has figured heretofore in the proceedings as that of a friend of Hurley, who lives in Nebraska.

After the talk with Mrs. Bacon, the "Baroness" testified, she consulted a Mr. Hartmann and he advised her to bring suit against Hurley. Up to that time, she said, she had not thought of suing, but intended to return to Germany. The "Baroness" said she went to the Holland House and asked the first person she met if Hurley was there. She couldn't remember if it was a man or a woman she put the question to.

Tells of Meeting Hurley.

"Well, what did you do then?" "I wait a moment and then came Hurley."

"Where was this?" "He came on the stairs."

"You were in the office?" "No, on the floor."

"In the hall?" "Yes."

"Who was present?" "I don't know. He was so quickly, so quickly. I don't understand half what he says, and he was going out. I says, 'Dear James, how are you?' and he was so excited nothing I understand what he says. Not much. I could not speak like this now. I could not speak one word correct."

"You did not see anyone there?" "No. I don't saw. I was so excited that I don't saw anybody there."

The "Baroness" was not asked to tell what further conversation between her and Hurley took place at this meeting.

The rest of the testimony which has been printed concerned their meeting in Europe, letters which passed between them and her efforts, while in the United States, to find Hurley and persuade him to marry her.

Don't Be Misled if You Have Lung Trouble

No specific has been discovered for Tuberculosis, but Eckman's Alterative has been successful in many cases. Read of this case:

393 Seventh Av., New York.

"Gentlemen: Five years ago last August I was taken to St. Francis' Hospital to be treated for bronchitis and congested lungs. After several weeks' treatment I was advised by the doctor to go to a convalescent sanitarium, but could not be admitted because the doctor at the hospital, after a thorough examination, declared my case Tubercular, and gave me a certificate to that effect. I showed the certificate to Father Stark, and he advises me to take Eckman's Alterative. I took it faithfully, and soon found myself free from night sweats and fever. I have not taken the Alterative now for two years, and can truthfully say I am well. I feel better and am stronger than before my sickness." (Abbreviated)

(Affidavit) MARY KORHAMER.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh, and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Sold by Raboteau Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co., and leading druggists. Write Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet of recoveries.

The police have been requested to look for Mrs. Helen Helbig, 34 years old, of 2007 Sidney street, who disappeared June 5. Her sister, Miss Kate Mulle, reported her absence.

GILL ON FLOOR OF HOUSE MAKES PLEA FOR DYER'S SEAT

St. Louis Democrat, Non-Member, Avails Himself of Right Rarely Exercised.

HE AVOWS HIS FIDELITY

Calls Upon Heaven as Witness That He Has Voted for Men of His Party.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The House today pressed toward a vote on the election contest for the seat of the Twelfth Missouri District, between L. C. Dyer, the incumbent, Republican, and Michael J. Gill, Democrat.

The House was treated to the rare scene of being addressed in its own hall by a man not a member. Gill, the contestant, who, under the rules, has the right to speak for himself, took the floor and made a brief speech supporting his claims to Dyer's seat. He declared he had been an "honest, life-long, hard-working Democrat," and resented any intimation that his representatives had tampered with the ballots. In summing up his plea, he said:

I appeal to Almighty God and to my mother in heaven, who has been gone long since, to look into my heart and if ever I have voted against a Democrat, may it now be exhibited in my face.

Although many election contests have been tried in the House, it has been several years since a contestant has availed himself of the right to speak for himself. It also has been several years since the House heard a statement like Gill's.

A majority of the Elections Committee, which reported resolutions unseating Dyer and giving Gill the place, contended that the election in 1912 was so tainted with fraud that the returns from seven precincts should be thrown out. That would give Gill the election by a plurality of 67.

Representatives MacKenzie and Shreve, Republicans, presented a minority report, with a resolution directing the committee to make a further investigation. They maintained that, under the Missouri statute, the individual ballot of each voter in the disputed precincts could be investigated and the true vote found, thus obviating the necessity of throwing out the entire poll.

MANNER BETRAYS TWO GIRLS IN MEN'S CLOTHES

Young Women Escape From Chillicothe Industrial Home; Held in Venice, Ill.

Elva Davis, 18 years old, and Grace Mason, 16, who escaped last Sunday from the State Industrial Home at Chillicothe, Mo., and "hoboed" their way across the State disguised in men's apparel, were held by the police at Venice, Ill., Thursday, when their feminine manner betrayed them.

Elva Davis said she was a graduate of the Springfield (Mo.) high school and a stenographer. Grace Mason said her family resided at Nevada, Mo.

They both were inmates of the Industrial School for two months, and escaped by prying loose iron bars over their windows with a smuggled hammer and sliding to the ground with sheets tied in a rope.

They told of invading a workmen's camp at Bedford, Mo., and taking two suits of clothing and a pair of scissors, with which they clipped their hair. The clipped hair was found in their pockets. Efforts are being made to communicate with relatives of the girls.

MOTHER CAUSES ARREST OF GIRL AND A SHERIFF

Widow Trails Daughter, 17, and Man From Montgomery County to St. Louis.

Mrs. Dora McDaniel, a widow, of New Florence, Mo., Thursday caused the arrest of her daughter, Anna 17 years old, and William H. Verser, Sheriff of Montgomery County, Mo., whom she trailed to St. Louis and found together in a maternity home at 2907 Franklin avenue. The Sheriff is 43 years old and has a wife and three children.

The girl said the Sheriff met her by appointment in St. Louis a few hours before their arrest. She told reporters a story of how her mother had intercepted letters from the Sheriff by arrangement with the Postmaster.

Verser had been a neighbor of the McDaniels for years at New Florence, until two years ago, when he was elected Sheriff and moved to Montgomery City.

Sheriff Verser gave $1000 bond to answer any charge that Montgomery County authorities may place against him. The girl is held in the police matron's room.

M. A. A. PROJECTS 8-STORY BUILDING ON ITS OLD SITE

If Home Is Erected Franklin Bank Contemplates Occupying a Part of It.

A new eight or nine story building on the site of the Missouri Athletic Club (Boatmen's Bank) building, Fourth street and Washington avenue, which was burned last March, is being planned by the club, which is now the Missouri Athletic Association. The plans are in the hands of William C. Connett, a lawyer, and director of the club.

If the building is erected, it is likely that the Franklin Bank will occupy a part of the first floor. George T. Riddle, president of the Franklin Bank, when asked Friday about this, said the bank had made Connett a proposal to lease a certain space at a certain rental, but that no deal had been concluded.

Improvement Body Interested.

The Downtown Improvement Association has interested itself in plans for the revival of business on this corner.

The Boatmen's Bank, now temporarily in the Pierce Building, some time ago gave up the idea of using the corner for banking purposes again, and has leased quarters on the first floor of the new building at the northeast corner of Broadway and Olive street, to which it will give its name.

The plan for a new M. A. A. building would involve the leasing of the site, probably for a long period, by the organization from the Boatmen's Bank. The upper floors of the building would be used as a clubhouse and home for unmarried members, and would be of modern fireproof construction.

Norton Newcomb, president of the Missouri Athletic Association, told a reporter the association's directors had not decided which proposition they would accept of three now before them providing for permanent quarters.

Newcomb said the three propositions included that of leasing and improving a building at Eighth and Pine streets, and one at Twelfth and Locust streets, or leasing the site formerly occupied by the M. A. C. and erecting a building.

WOMEN IN A SALOON, LICENSE IS REVOKED

"Can't You Pass Up Anything," Said Michael Strubel, According to Policeman.

Excise Commissioner Anderson Friday revoked the license of Michael Strubel, who conducted a saloon at 1712 South Broadway, and who was quoted by Patrolman Mathiason as having said: "Can't you pass up anything," when Mathiason called his attention to the presence of two women sitting on the laps of men in a rear room where a piano was playing, at 12:15 a. m., June 13.

John Porter, a petty officer on the United States gunboat Isla de Luzon, complained to the police, May 24, 1913, that he was robbed of $400 while in Strubel's saloon.

Joseph Royce, proprietor of a saloon at Twelfth and Pine street, surrendered his license Friday to Anderson. Royce was cited after a shooting scrape in his dramshop on June 2, when Robert Lockridge reached over the bar, seizing a revolver belonging to Royce, shot H. H. Pringle in the left arm, in a quarrel about money.

The police later reported to Anderson that a bartender for Royce, who said he was "Tony" Foley, returned a stolen watch to a claimant, with the explanation that a pedestrian found it in front of the saloon and deposited it with the bartender. Royce said it was Paul Foley, a younger brother of Tony Foley, who was tending bar for him.

Wabash Club Banquet.

The annual election and banquet of the Wabash Club will be held at the American Annex Saturday night. The club, at a picnic Sunday, will open its new clubhouse and sanitary bathing beach at Ferguson, Mo. There will be a band concert at the beach.

SIX SHIP LINES GIVE NOTICE THEY WILL USE CANAL

Regular Atlantic-Pacific Service to Be Established When Goethals Gives Word.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Six established steamship lines already have served notice upon the Panama Canal management of their intention to make regular use of the waterway. One vessel from the West coast ports of South America will be at the Pacific gates of the canal July 3, seeking to make her way to Liverpool by that route and thus to initiate a fortnightly service between Liverpool and the west side of South America.

An American steamship line now operating four steamers on the Pacific side and six on the Atlantic is awaiting the opening of the canal to merge all 10 into a regular line between San Francisco and New York.

Hawaiian sugar, which has already begun to come through the canal on barges being transshipped at either end, will be carried in unbroken cargoes from Honolulu to New York, just as soon as Gov. Goethals gives the word that regular steamships may use the waterway.

THANKS HOSPITAL GIVERS

Board of Managers Obtain $2000 to Aid Children.

The board of managers of the St. Louis Children's Hospital have extended their thanks to the contributors who recently added to the maintenance fund of the institution. More than $2000 was raised, but the board states that is only about one-fourth of the sum needed for the present work and hopes that the subscriptions will continue.

The hospital is nonsectarian, receiving all children without any restrictions as to religion or nationality.

SAILOR IN PRISON IN FORGER'S PLACE PROVES INNOCENCE

Albert Johansen Couldn't Even Pronounce Name He Was Supposed to Have.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Albert Johansen, the Scandinavian sailor shanghaied at Nagasaki, Japan, and carried in irons in place of another man to San Quentin prison to serve a term for forgery, was released from prison last night by order of the United States District Court. Johansen was serving a three-year sentence under a name he could not pronounce and for a crime he had never heard of.

Johansen said he was drinking one night last month in a saloon at Nagasaki. Three strangers bought him a drink. The next morning he found himself at sea, a manacled prisoner, on the transport Sheridan.

Nobody Believed His Story.

Nobody believed him when he tried to prove his innocence and he was delivered at San Quentin as James Rogers, alias Peter Grimes, to serve a three years' sentence imposed by the treaty court at Shanghai for forgery. Johansen's cellmate chanced to be a fellow countryman and through him he got a hearing. Johansen looked at the prisoner's portrait and identified Rogers' portrait as that of one of the men he drank with in Nagasaki.

The real Rogers served a year in San Quentin for forgery. When released he won the interest of Capt. Robert Dollar, a merchant, who sent him to China in a clerical position on one of his vessels. Soon Rogers was posing as Capt. Dollar's son. He passed forged checks and was sentenced to San Quentin.

The belief of Federal officials is that Rogers got his guard drunk, slipped a stupefying drug into Johansen's drink and personally delivered him late at night on board the Sheridan, turning over to a petty officer of the ship the papers he had stolen from the drunken deputy and receiving in person the acknowledgment for his own delivery.

Rogers, who is believed to have drugged Johansen, has been apprehended near Nagasaki, according to information received by United States District Attorney Preston tonight.

Forger Once Newspaper Man.

Information was received tonight that Grimes formerly was a newspaper man of Pittsburg and before that was treasurer of the Athletic Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association at Scranton, Pa.

From there his career has been traced to Louisville, Ky., where he made books on the races. Thence he drifted to the Orient and on a return voyage met Miss Faye Noble, a missionary of Cleveland, O., to whom he was married.

Grimes deserted his wife in 1911. She got a divorce in 1912. She is now a stenographer for the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. in New York.

OVER-SEA FLIER DEVISES SIGNALS TO AID IN RESCUE

Lieut. Porte Writes for Post-Dispatch His Plan of Keeping in Touch With Ships.

HE WILL USE ROCKETS

His Route Will Be From Newfoundland, to Azores, to Spain and to England.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y., June 19.—In the following article by Lieut. Porte, who is to write for the New York World and the Post-Dispatch his experiences during his flight to Europe in the Wanamaker airship, he makes an announcement of utmost importance, one that may prove of vital aid in accomplishing the transoceanic flight. It has to do with the signals that all ships using the southern route in crossing the Atlantic are requested to display during the period in which the British naval officer expects to make his flight. It is asked that all shipmasters carefully note the system of signaling as set forth below.

By LIEUT. JOHN CYRIL PORTE, R. N.

Although it would appear now as if the across-the-sea flight will not be begun until somewhere around the middle of July, I think it wise to follow the official announcement of my route made yesterday, in which it was said that I shall steer from St. Johns, Newfoundland, to the Azores, with the request that all ships crossing the Atlantic in either direction of the southern route employ a code of signals that shall enable me to determine my position.

Through the kind and valuable cooperation of Capt. F. Creagh Osborne, superintendent of compasses of the British Admiralty, who is to be present in person, I hope, when the flight actually begins, a code of signals has been worked out that should prove of much aid.

To Azores, Then to Spain.

It is requested that ships keep a good lookout for the machine, and that after the press has announced the approximate date of the flight the signals be kept standing on those vessels which happen to be near the projected route—Newfoundland to Flores in the Azores. From the Azores the route will be laid to the coast of Spain, thence following the steamer track to Ushant and the English coast.

I purpose to fly at below an elevation of 500 feet all the way, and at an average speed of 60 miles an hour. Wireless signals will be made from Cape Race and the Azores giving exact Greenwich meridian time of starting, and it is especially requested that these flashes be repeated as soon as possible by all ships carrying wireless equipment.

It is important for me to announce that I shall carry no wireless on the flying boat. The reason for this is that it is impossible for me to spare the weight. It has been necessary to shave off every ounce of superfluous weight, even to scooping out the woodwork and skeletonizing the steel supports.

Should it be necessary for me to signal, and I apprehend that such a necessity would be contingent on my becoming distressed, I shall use smoke bombs by day and rockets throwing red stars by night. I shall be flying low enough to be able to read the ship signals, which, it is asked, be displayed on the foremast or mainmast as indicated. Here is the code that I request be followed:

All ships on north side of the direct course between St. Johns and Flores will display these signals on foremast to indicate their distance from the track on which I should be flying:

90 to 60 miles from track, square flag, ball, square flag.

60 to 30 miles from track, two square flags.

30 to 0 miles from track, one square flag.

All ships on south side of the direct course between St. Johns and Flores will display these signals on mainmast:

90 to 60 miles from track, square flag, ball, square flag.

60 to 30 miles from track, two square flags.

Will Descend If Puzzled.

If I am at a loss to understand the signals I shall circle around the ship or descend to the surface when it is requested that the magnetic bearings of Flores, in commercial code, be hoisted to the foremast and the distance in miles from the same place be signaled from one of the other masts.

On the passage from the Azores to the coast of Spain and from there to Ushant, magnetic bearings and distances should be given from Cape Finisterre and Ushant lighthouse, respectively.

In the event of the wireless not sending out reports of my arrival at my places of call within reasonable time ship masters are requested to keep a sharp lookout for my craft and the smoke bomb and rocket signals. But I hope and believe that I shall not require and rescue work.

During the flight I shall use no flags, but if the expedition promises to be successful before alighting I plan to fly three flags from the engine struts. One will be the American ensign, one the Union Jack of England and the third Mr. Wanamaker's private yacht burgee. Thus each interest in the effort will be represented—England, to which country I owe allegiance; America, which supplies the boat and my assistant, Lieut. George E. A. Hallett, and the personal flag of the patron of the adventure.

Tells of Lights He'll Carry.

I have been asked as to what lights I shall carry. When we are flying I plan to have no light visible within the cockpit or conning tower. I shall have a small incandescent globe, fed from dry batteries, over the compasses, and another over the inclinometers and revolution indicators. There will be another over the chart table. Over the engines there will be a searchlight for use when necessary. Then I shall have two headlights on either side of the boat for use if I should be compelled to land after sundown. These will only be switched on when necessary.

Good progress was made on the construction today. It is unlikely that the boat will be ready for shipment from here before the end of next week. That would delay her departure for Newfoundland until July 4, but I personally plan to leave New York for my point of flight next Saturday a week.

By Saturday the boat will be taken down to the trial field alongside the lake, and there the work of assembling will be finished. Twenty-four hours later we shall see how far our theory of construction squares with the actual work of flying.

Visitors Flock to Hammsport, Have Confidence in Porte.

HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y., June 19.—The news of the construction of the transoceanic flier has brought many visitors to this village, and a dozen newspaper men are awaiting the trial flights. Many men interested in aviation have written asking for accommodations, so that they may see how the giant behaves when put under actual tests. Lieut. Porte, the hero of this Jules Verne-romance-made-real, is the center of interest here. He is pursuing his task of overseeing the building of the craft which means life and fame or death and failure with the same quiet seriousness that might be present in doing an unimportant job. His reserve force and self-reliance has imbued all who have met him with a singular confidence that he will succeed in his great undertaking.

"FLYING SQUADRON" HERE

Temperance Advocates to Speak at Church Tonight.

"The Flying Squadron of America," composed of a number of noted lecturers who are touring the country for the promotion of the temperance cause, will appear at the First Christian Church, 3126 Locust street, Friday evening. One of the principal speakers will be J. Frank Hanly, former Governor of Indiana. Another speaker will be Oliver W. Stewart, former member of the Illinois Legislature.

Eugene W. Chafin of Arizona, twice Prohibitionist candidate for President of the United States; Dr. Ira Landreth of Tennessee, president of the recent International Y. M. C. A. convention; Dr. Charles H. Sheldon, clergyman and author, and Clinton N. Howard, known on the lecture platform as "The Little Giant," are among others who form the "flying squadron."

HELD AS GIRL'S SLAYER

Pennsylvanian, 21, Accused of Killing Child.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 19.—Alleged to have murdered Florence Dove, a child, on the hillside near North Braddock, May 4, when she, with Elizabeth Klenck, was picking violets, Jacob Taylor, 21 years old, is under arrest here and the police declared he had made two written confessions.

The murder of the Dove girl was the last of a series of similar crimes near North Braddock. It so aroused the people that several thousand steel workers and policemen searched more than a week for the murderer.

TWINS TO BE CUT APART

PARIS, June 19.—Surgeons are looking forward with curiosity to an operation on two babes, Anne Marie and Marie Anne, born May 22, in a French village, joined together back to back, being united in the lumbar region.

In medical language they form a "monster pygopage," and differ from the case recently operated by Dr. Le Filiatre, which was known as a xipiopage, the infants being joined face to face at the abdominal region, as were the famous Siamese twins. A radiograph was taken today of the children.

15 STUDENTS GRADUATED BY ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY

Arts and Sciences College Holds Exercises; O'Neil Ryan Delivers Class Address.

Degrees were awarded to 15 graduates at the annual commencement of the St. Louis University College of Arts and Sciences in the University Auditorium Thursday night. The class address on "The Purpose of Education" was delivered by O'Neil Ryan.

PROMINENT ST. LOUIS BUSINESS WOMAN TALKS

Has Made a Personal Test of Plant Juice and Recommends It to Others.

Among the prominent women of St. Louis who have publicly endorsed Plant Juice, none are better known than Mrs. Lulu Mason, who has a large apartment and rooming house at 2641 Washington avenue. Mrs. Mason came to St. Louis in 1903 and is known as a conservative, efficient business woman. She said:

"I was full of malaria and badly run down and debilitated. I had no energy and was tired all the time. I needed a good tonic to build me up and Plant Juice has filled the need. The results in my case have been all that I could ask. I consider Plant Juice a great remedy."

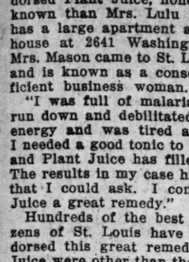

Hundreds of the best known citizens of St. Louis have publicy endorsed this great remedy. If Plant Juice were other than the great remedy it is claimed these men and women of known integrity and honesty would not endorse it. Those who suffer from malaria and a general run down and debilitated condition, nervousness, low vitality, feel tired and worn out, with no energy or ambition, sleep badly and wake up listless and languid, with coated tongue, puffy eyes, no appetite and a general grouch, will find sure relief in Plant Juice. NICARAGUA TREATY FRAUD ON FRIENDLY NATION, SAYS SMITH

Senator Declares Convention Would Take Away Rights Enjoyed by Republic.

COLOMBIA TREATY OPPOSE

Borah Leads Attack on Expression of Regret and the $25,000,000 Settlement.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Secretary Bryan has not made a favorable impression on the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations in presenting and advocating the ratification of the Colombian and Nicaraguan treaties.

Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, a member of the committee, today denounced the Nicaraguan treaty as "a fraud upon a friendly republic," and said he would use all of his power to defeat it. Senator Borah is equally as emphatic in his opposition to the Colombian treaty.

It is predicted that both treaties will fail of ratification in the Senate.

When you consider that dollar diplomacy has resulted in the American Government, through private bankers, foisting an annual payroll of over $100,000 on the republic of Nicaragua without giving that Government in Central America any voice in the choice of its officials, in the customs, revenues and railroad service, you get a slight glimpse of the downright wickedness of dollar diplomacy," said Senator Smith.

Both Treaties Tainted, He Says.

"I think the whole business a fraud upon a friendly republic, which should receive the condemnation of our Government rather than its co-operation.

"Both of the treaties are tainted with corruption and fraud and when the whole truth is known will shock the American sense of decency and fair play."

Hannis Taylor, who has represented Colombia throughout the negotiation of the proposed treaty, emphatically denied the story that he was to receive a million dollars for his services.

"The statement is absolutely false," said Taylor. "I have put in a claim for an ordinary lawyer's fee for my services; that is all."

It is understood Taylor will get about $50,000 from Colombia and Charles A. Douglas $50,000 from Nicaragua.

Senator Borah, who is leading the fight on the Columbian treaty, declared he would make an effort to have the treaty discussed in open session, that the public may know what is being done. He said Republican and Democratic Senators would join him in such a contest.

"If that treaty is discussed in public," said he, "I am sure it will never be ratified."

Oppose Expression of Regret.

Senator Borah and those who stand with him protest against the expression of regret and the provision for the payment of $25,000,000 in the treaty.

A vigorous protest is made against the proposition to let Colombian cattle and salt and provisions of all kinds go over the Panama Railroad at one-half the rate charged similar products of the United States, and under no conditions will the charges be in excess of the actual operation charges.

Senators Smith and Borah claim the Nicaraguan treaty amounts to the taking over of the control of the Government of that republic. They object to the provisions that prohibit Nicaragua from enjoying certain rights that she now enjoys.

For $3,000,000, it is charged, the United States gets the exclusive right of way for a canal and three operating bases, and is given the privilege of dominating local affairs. Under the proposed treaty the Washington Government will pass upon all colonization projects proposed for Nicaragua.

"We virtually buy the republic of Nicaragua for $3,000,000," said one Senator after hearing Douglas talk.

Douglas was questioned as to the alleged intimate relations between the present administration in Nicaragua and Brown brothers and the Seligmans, bankers of New York. Senators interpret the treaty to mean that if it is ratified and becomes effective the United States promises to keep in force the Diaz regime.

Bankers Control Railroad.

Douglas admitted the effect of the treaty would be to keep the present administration in power for a while at least. He said the people of Nicaragua preferred a treaty containing a guarantee against revolutions.

Senator Smith brought out the fact that the National Railroad of Nicaragua, about 129 miles in length and worth approximately $4,000,000, has been turned over to American bankers—to Brown brothers and the Seligmans—for $1,000,000. The New York bankers, Smith said, own 51 per cent of the stock. He added that the other 49 per cent had been hypothecated for a like sum.

Senator Stone said after hearing Douglas discuss the provisions of the Nicaraguan treaty that it might be some time before a vote is taken on either the Colombian or the Nicaraguan treaty. He intimated numerous persons would be heard on the Nicaraguan treaty.

An effort may be made to have Brown brothers and the Seligmans tell of their relations with President Diaz and his administration. The committee will go fully into the motives behind the movement for an American protectorate.

Sardine Canneries Close.

PARIS, June 19.—The owners of sardine factories at Concarneau, the headquarters of the Brittany sardine fishery, decided today to shut down. They claim their right to buy sardines by weight. Fishers want to sell by the thousand. The lockout probably will extend along the whole coast of Brittany.

CITY CLUB MEN TO AID THE CHARTER

Hundred Members Will Make House-to-House Canvass of Their Neighborhoods.

More than 100 members of the City Club volunteered Thursday to make a house-to-house canvass of their neighborhoods in the interest of the proposed new city charter. They took literature, buttons and copies of the new charter for distribution among their neighbors, and memorandum books in which to make a record of their work.

The members promised to go to every house on both sides of the street in the block in which they live and see every voter. Those voters who are doubtful will be urged to support the charter and an effort will be made to convert those who are inclined to be against it.

Plan Explained to Members.

John J. Edwards of the Public Affairs Committee of the City Club explained to the members who attended a conference at noon the plan of the work. The Rev. Dr. William J. Williamson, pastor of the Third Baptist Church, was scheduled to make an address, but on account of illness he could not keep the appointment.

Secretary Jones of the Citizens' New Charter Campaign Committee explained the plan in detail, and distributed literature among the volunteer workers. Eugene Stinde, one of the members, said that several other members in his block had volunteered their services, and requested that he be assigned to work in one of the river wards.

The members will make it plain to the voters on whom they call that they have volunteered their services, and have not been paid for their work.

Will Report Result of Work.

Roger N. Baldwin, secretary of the Civic League, said he made a canvass of a portion of the Fourteenth Precinct of the Twentieth Ward Wednesday night. He said he had been assured before he started the canvass that every Democrat in the precinct was against the charter. Of 38 men visited he said he found only one who was going to vote against the charter.

The City Club members will take the names and addresses of all voters who are for the charter and will go out on election day and see that they go to the polls and vote.

The members will meet again at noon next Tuesday to make reports on the results of their canvass. Many of the members will begin their work Thursday night.

New Penitentiary Chaplain.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 19.—The Rev. E. M. Johnson of Bethany has been appointed prison chaplain, to succeed the Rev. P. C. John, who died some time ago. The new chaplain has been a Christian minister for 10 years, and has been stationed at Kearney.

WHIRLWIND FINISH PLANNED FOR THE CHARTER CAMPAIGN

Meetings Will Be Held Next Week Throughout City in Parks and Schools.

NOON TALKS ARRANGED

Charter Foes Start Attack on Col. Gardner, Saying He Is Labor's Enemy.

NEW CITY CHARTER MEETINGS

FRIDAY NIGHT.

Twenty-seventh Ward Democratic organization; Byrnes' Grove, Natural Bridge and Arlington avenue; speaker, Thomas L. Anderson.

Fifth Ward Republican Club mass meeting, 1530 Franklin avenue; speakers, Mayor Kiel and Charles W. Rutledge.

Mass meeting, Krallman's Hall, Twenty-second and Madison streets; speakers, Julian M. Gibson, Mayor Kiel and T. J. Dalton.

United Garment Workers, Local No. 26; Bowman's Hall, Eleventh and Locust streets; speaker, Samuel Rosenfeld.

Third Ward Democratic organization, Blair and Benton; speaker, T. J. Dalton.

SATURDAY NIGHT.

Southwest City Limits Improvement Association, 6801 Gravois avenue; speakers, Thomas D. Cannon and Henry W. Barth.

Mass meeting, Bauer's Hall, 3500 North Broadway; speakers, Henry S. Caulfield and Thomas L. Anderson.

Mass meeting, Fennel's Hall, 5013 Florissant avenue; speakers, Julian M. Gibson and John H. Gundlach.

A whirlwind campaign for the new charter will be conducted next week in every section of the city. The Citizens' New Charter Campaign Committee is making arrangements for scores of meetings, including a series of noonday meetings in a vacant storeroom at Eighth and Locust streets.

Meetings will be held in playgrounds, parks and school houses and literature will be distributed throughout the city. More than 100 members of the City Club have volunteered to make a house-to-house canvass of the blocks in which they live. They will ask their neighbors and friends to vote for the charter and work for it.

The campaign is to be made most aggressive. The tactics employed by the opposition to the charter has aroused the fighting spirit of the leaders of the campaign.

Attack Made on Gardner.

Discovery was made Friday that the anti-charter campaign committee has been circulating a card containing a bitter attack on Col. Fred D. Gardner of the Board of Freeholders. The attack alleges that Col. Gardner is unfriendly to union labor, and urges union labor representatives to vote against the charter for that reason.

This charge is being refuted by many of the union labor leaders who are active in their support of the charter. Col. Gardner demonstrated his friendship for union labor several years ago by signing the bonds of John Berry and P. J. Morrin, two officials of the iron workers union charged with the dynamite conspiracy.

But for the fact that Col. Gardner signed the bonds the two men would have had to remain in the penitentiary during their appeal. His act made it possible for them to come home and stay with their families. Charles A. Lammert, president of the Building Trades Council, who was the leader of the movement to get Morrin and Berry released on bond, is now one of the strongest supporters of the new charter.

Opponents Appear at Meetings.

Another scheme resorted to by the anti-charter organization is to watch for the lists of charter meetings published in the newspapers and appear without invitation or warning at these meetings and demand to be heard. The prime movers in this method of campaigning are George Safford, a Socialist lawyer; Sheridan Webster, another Socialist lawyer; Steve Ryan, a Socialist shoe maker, and John P. McDonough, Socialist and union labor man.

These Socialist speakers, in their attack on the charter, assail the newspapers and declare they cannot get a hearing.

The New Charter Campaign Committee has decided to meet all the false arguments that are being made against the charter by these Socialist speakers with plain statements of facts.

PREDICTS LIQUOR'S DOOM

Mrs. Lake, St. Louisan, Talks to Dry Workers at Clinton.

CLINTON, Mo., June 19.—The big question that confronts the American public today is: "Which has the greater value, the revenue derived from the liquor tariff or the lives of the men and the women it ruins?" declared Mrs. Leonora M. Lake of St. Louis in an address to the national conference of workers of the Prohibition party today.

"Men and women are the nation's best asset," continued the speaker, "and every nation which has forgotten this truth has gone down to oblivion. Men, not money, make a nation's greatness. This nation must decide, and decide at once, whether it values men above liquor revenue." Mrs. Lake urged the convention to keep up the fight for prohibition, declaring the liquor business was doomed to pass away within ten years.

Where They Will Meet.

ANTWERP, June 19.—The expressive title of Alblasserdammerlantaarnopstekersvergaderinglokaal was conferred on the new gasworkers' assembly hall opened by the Mayor of Alblasserdam, Holland.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

FIRST OF CHARTER CONTRIBUTIONS

Committee Makes Public Gifts of $821—Mayor Kiel and C. A. Stix Give $100 Each.

The Citizens' New Charter Campaign Committee made public Friday the first list of contributions to the campaign fund. Voluntary contributions amounting to $821.75 are reported. All these contributions have been made without any solicitation whatever by the finance committee.

Mayor Kiel, chairman of the campaign committee, besides making speeches every night for the new Charter, contributed $100 to the campaign fund. Owen Miller, secretary of the American Federation of Musicians, and formerly for many years president of the Central Trades and Labor of St. Louis, made a contribution of $5. Charles A. Stix of the Grand-Leader also contributed $100.

EXCURSIONIST IS ROBBED

Pickpocket Gets $92 and Twice Breaks Away.

Joseph Valenti of 1225 North Seventh street, leaving the excursion steamer Gray Eagle, at the foot of Locust street about 11:45 p. m., Thursday, felt a hand in his pocket. He grabbed it and the man it belonged to jerked away and ran. Valenti overtook him and the man again freed himself.

He said: "You know me, I'm Mike of Eighth and Biddle streets," and ran away again. Valenti then discovered he had been robbed of a purse containing $92 and a check for $6.65.

MAXIMILIAN WAS SHOT TO DEATH 47 YEARS AGO TODAY

Author Tells in New Book How Mexico's Last Emperor Faced Firing Squad.

Forty-seven years ago today, on the morning of June 19, 1867, Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico, the last ruler imposed upon that country by an outside nation, faced a firing squad on the Hill of the Bells, near the city of Queretaro, and died with "Viva Mexico!" on his lips.

The story of the unhappy Austrian Archduke, his brief rule, his downfall and death, has been told in a new form in a book, "Maximilian in Mexico," written by Percy F. Martin, fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, and published by Charles Scribner's Sons.

History, ancient and modern, hardly contains a more vivid chapter of tragedy than this one from the annals of Mexico. Besides Maximilian himself, there appear in leading roles his consort, Carlotta, the Emperor Napoleon III of France, who placed him on the throne and then abandoned him, and the noblest figure in Mexican history, the patriot and lawgiver, Benito Juarez. This stern old Indian, whose memory all Mexicans revere, desired to spare Maximilian, but felt that he could not—that the lesson to be taught to monarchical Europe, and to the world, outweighed in value the life of any individual.

Mexico's disorder, anarchy and bankruptcy, leading to European intervention in its affairs, which the United States could not at that time (the Civil War period) prevent, are described by the author of the book. He then gives an outline of the intrigue which seated Maximilian, and of the facts of his troubled reign, ending with his overthrow and capture at Queretaro by the followers of Juarez.

It was eminently true of Maximilian that nothing in his life became him like the leaving of it. It is a dignified and appealing story of Maximilian's last hours which appears in the Martin volume.

"At 6 o'clock, with the sunlight falling in a flood of golden streaks upon the paved courtyard of the convent, there arrived the platoon of ragged, ruffian looking soldiery, officered by a captain almost as tattered and quite as truculent in appearance, and who drew up in a straggling line with a much unnecessary noise and clatter. Before the officer could address the Emperor he exclaimed, 'Senor, I am ready.'

"The few attendants who had been permitted to administer to him in his prison now crowded to the Emperor's side, weeping and kissing his hands. Moved by so intense an expression of suffering, Maximilian gently observed, 'Be calm, my friends; you see that I am so. It is the will of God that I should die; we cannot do aught against it.'

"I Am Quite Ready," He Said.

"As he passed the open doors of the cells occupied by his Generals, Marimon and Mejia, to whom also guards had been despatched to bring them out, Maximilian inquired: 'Are you ready, gentlemen? I am quite so.' Both of the fellow-condemned advanced and saluted the Emperor, who affectionately embraced them.

"Then, in company, all three descended the winding stone staircase, which they had climbed for the first time barely three weeks before. Through the gallery and the courtyard they marched side by side, the escort keeping close behind with cocked rifles ready at a moment's notice to shoot any one of them showing the least disposition to resist. Arrived at the street before the convent, Maximilian, as he emerged from the gloomy portal and encountered the full power of the brilliant sun, exclaimed with rapture: 'Ah! what a superb day! It was always my wish to die upon such an one, and my prayer has been answered.'

"Three closed carriages, ordinary public hackney coaches of the second class, miserably horsed, were in attendance. Into the first Maximilian stepped, being followed immediately by Father Soria, who would have respectfully seated himself opposite, but with a gentle pressure of the hand the Emperor drew down the trembling and tearful priest to his side, and the carriage moved on. * * *

"Near at hand were three coffins, hastily knocked together and painted a dull black, the lids being so badly made that great gaps appeared upon either side where adjusted.

Tells Men Where to Aim.

"Maximilian placed himself in the center of the group, and where he halted the wall behind him was slightly higher; Mejia stood, with great difficulty, upon his left hand, while Miramon took up his position to the right. Both of the Generals submitted to the banaging of the eyes, but Maximilian, upon the approach of the officer commissioned to carry out this proceeding, gently motioned to him not to trouble. He then left his place and advanced toward the firing section, consisting of seven men, and to each of them he presented a gold coin, 20 pesos, known as 'Maximilian d'or,' saying, 'Muchachos (boys), aim well, and aim right here,' placing his hand upon his heart. He then returned to his position. * * *

"It is customary in all Latin countries for the politically as for the criminally condemned to deliver a farewell oration upon the eve of dissolution. It is a privilege accorded to even the worst malefactors, and one which is but seldom discarded. Maximilian's soft and well modulated voice was heard addressing the soldiery facing him, for he was too far distant for his utterances to reach the ranks of the troops and beyond them the gathering of the public who had followed them to the execution ground.

"'Mexicans!' he said, 'persons of my rank and origin are destined by God either to be benefactors of the people or martyrs. Called by a great part of you, I came for the good of the country. Ambition did not bring me here; I came with the best of intentions and sincerest wishes for the future of my adopted country and for that of my soldiers, whom I thank before my death for the sacrifices which they have made for me. Mexicans! may my blood be the last which shall be spilled for the welfare of the country, and if it should be necessary that his sons should still shed theirs, may it flow for its good, never by treason. Long live independence; long live Mexico.'

"Glancing around, the Emperor observed that several Indian peons, who had crept up behind the soldiery, were weeping; he smiled upon them, encouragingly, and then faced the firing squad. Placing both his hands for a moment upon his breast just above his heart, he dropped them quickly to his side. At the same moment the five shots rang out clearly upon the still morning air; for a brief second the Emperor did not move, then he gently swayed and fell upon his right side, whispering almost inaudibly "Hombre" ("man"), an expression used to inferiors. All five bullets had pierced his body, and the executioners had done their work well and truly. Observing a slight twitching of the arms, doubtless caused by the contraction and relaxation of the muscles, the commanding officer approached the body and turned it upon its back. Indicating to the heart with the point of his bare sword, he silently motioned to one of the soldiers, who thereupon advanced and sent another bullet from his rifle straight through the heart."

St. Louis Wins Again.

The iron bed contract for Indian schools has just been awarded to Scarritt-Comstock Furniture Co. by the United States Government. These beds are to be distributed in the West, where all the Government Indian schools are. They are labeled "made in St. Louis." Institutional furniture is a feature of Scarritt-Comstock.

CHILDREN'S SHOW EARNS $10.98 TO SAVE THE BABIES

North Market Street Young Folks Help Pure Milk Fund—Other Fund Benefits.

The two entertainments given by children under the management of William and Margaret Prott of 5719 North Market street, on the lawn of Mrs. Margaret Laughlin's residence, 5717 North Market street, on Saturday and Wednesday evenings, realized a total of $10.98 for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund to save the tenement babies.

The young players who took part in the performance of "Uncle Sam and His Children" and in musical numbers, the full program of which already has been published, acquitted themselves finely and the big audience of neighboring friends had a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

All the children wore their Pure Milk League buttons, and the Post-Dispatch Weather Bird on those buttons was in high spirits over the success of the night.

The juvenile company included Irene Fox, Charlotte Schenck, Anna Zax, Catherine Schwinke, Hattie Zax, Herman Wendt, Charles Crowley, Willie Prott, Margaret Prott, Marie Prott, Dorothy Crowley, Martha Wendt, Thelma Bryan, Claudia Bryan, Alma Wendt, Louisa Freese, Sarah Hosely, Milton Rastberger, Leo Prott, Rolla Bryan, Philip Crowley, Cornelius Crowley, Theodore Prott, Frances McAleney, Lydia Bryan, Hazel, Freese and Miss Madge Bryan, the latter assisting at the piano.

Little Philip Crowley of 5718 North Market street distinguished himself by selling the greatest number of tickets for this performance, and the management therefore gives him special mention for his good achievement in behalf of the tenement tots.

The pretty little fairy play of "Cinderella" was presented by a company of children on the lawn of Mr. Frank Smith's residence, 946 Maryville avenue also other program features, for the benefit of the Pure Milk Fund, and the sum of $7 was earned with which to help save the tenement babies. The cast of the play was:

Cinderella .....Caroline Wooster
Her Three Step-Sisters—
Albertina Goessling, Bertha Smith and Grace Wooster.
Fairy Godmother .....Martha Timberlake
Prince .....Jimcoe Goessling

The entertainment closed with recitations by John and William Timberlake and Gregory Goessling, also a drill, and the singing of "America."

Six helpful boys, all members of the Pure Milk League of 1913 and now duly enrolled on the League membership list for this present summer of 1914, gave an entertainment on the lawn of the Gould residence, 5615 Minerva avenue, and earned $3.65 for the Pure Milk Fund to save the babies.

The entertainment comprised plays and moving pictures, and refreshments were sold. The six boys are Allen and Quentin Gould of 5615 Minerva avenue, Donald Calhoun of 1319 Clara avenue, Edgar and Walter Walsh of 1337 Clara avenue, and David Taylor of 5609 Page boulevard.

Seven kindly girls and boys gave an entertainment on the lawn of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Kraus, 5302 Maple avenue, and earned $3.71 with which to help the Pure Milk Fund save the little ones of the poor from sickness and death caused by impure milk in the hot summer time.

A pleasing program of essays, recitations and songs was presented. Those taking part were Regina Strauss, manager, 5218 Page boulevard; Bernice Feltason, 5306 Maple; Leona Marguerite Kraus, 5302 Maple; Alice and Robert Cronbach, 5346 Maple, and Lee Kaufman, 5308 Vernon avenue.

Four sweet girls held a bazar in the afternoon and presented a little play in the evening on the lawn of the Sherwood residence, 1334 Semple avenue, and earned $2.88 for the Pure Milk Fund to save the babies. Their names are Margaret and Betsy Sherwood, 1334 Semple avenue, and Eleanor and Martha McGavic, 1330 Semple, and it made them very happy to help the poor tenement tots.

Little John S. Hoffman of 4424 Laclede avenue, writes: "I inclose 25 cents for the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund to help the babies. Send me one of your buttons."

The league button, with its pretty picture of the Post-Dispatch Weather Bird in colors, went straight to Master Hoffman on receipt of his letter.

The name of Beatrice Olin of 4745 McMillan avenue inadvertently was omitted from the muster-roll of children who took part in the Pure Milk Fund benefit entertainment on the lawn of the residence of Gertrude Bishop, 1157 Walton avenue, and little Miss Olin was nearly heartbroken. The omission now is rectified and Beatrice is the happy possessor of a Pure Milk League button and league membership card.

All over St. Louis now the children are working to help the Pure Milk League save the tenement tots.

They are enlisting in the league with proud and joyous hearts.

Their slogan is the league slogan: "Save the babies!"

FREES ZANG BROTHERS FOR DISTURBANCE

Judge Kimmel Dismisses Minor Case Against Slayer of Wesley Simon.

Henry Zang of 610 Hickory street, who shot and killed Wesley "Red" Simon in Mooney's saloon, Thirteenth and Chestnut streets, four months ago during a court recess in the trial of Simon for murder, and his brother Joseph Zang, a saloonkeeper of 1832 South Third street, were dismissed in Judge Kimmel's court Friday after trial on a peace disturbance charge, preferred by Fred Schaller, of 1902 South Seventh street.

The Zang brothers testified that on June 11, while Henry Zang was in his brother's saloon negotiating a horse deal, Schaller came in intoxicated, and, when refused a drink, picked up a glass of beer and hurled it at Joseph Zang. They said they put Schaller out of the place.

Joseph Zang was arrested, and when Henry Zang went to the police station to bail him out, he also was arrested. Schaller, as the complaining witness, testified he had been drinking that night and although declaring he had been beaten up, would not say the Zang brothers struck him.

LINEMAN SHOCKED TO DEATH AS TWO RISE TO QUIT WORK

One Comes in Contact With Live Wire and Other's Body Forms Circuit to Ground.

One man was electrocuted and another severely shocked in East St. Louis late Thursday afternoon through an unusual combination of circumstances which sent a 2300-volt current through their bodies at the moment when they were preparing to quit work for the day. The fact that the two men stood up at the same time caused the accident.

Otto Tucker, 30 years old, of 4100 North Eighty-ninth street, East St. Louis, the man who was killed, was working on the same pole with William Hill, 43 years old, of the Geary House, East St. Louis, and Joseph Sweatnam, 32 years old, of 2728 Locust street, St. Louis. All were linemen for the East St. Louis & Suburban Electric Railway Co.

The men were repairing a transformer box attached to a pole on St. Clair avenue, near Third street.

Tucker, in a stooping position, was on the iron transformer box, half-way up the pole. A ground wire led from the box to the foot of the pole.

Hill Climbs Down Pole.

Hill, wearing climbers and a safety belt strapped around the pole, was a few feet above Tucker and Sweatnam was still higher up, also strapped to the pole near its top. Extending from the wooden pole at its summit was a metal arm supporting an arc lamp.

When the 5 o'clock whistle sounded the signal to quit work, Hill loosened his safety belt and clambered down the pole, passing Tucker, who wore no safety belt.

Sweatnam, who had been clinging near the top of the pole in a crouching position, hugging the pole with his knees, dug his climbers into the pole and stood up. This brought his shoulder in contact with a 2300-volt wire leading to the metal arc light support.

At the same time Tucker arose from his crouching position and grasped the arc light support to steady himself. The ground wire leading from the transformer box to the earth made a circuit and the current went through the bodies of both men.

Life Belt Saves Sweatnam.

Sweatnam had no grip on the wire. He had merely touched it with his shoulder. At the first shock he fell back. The current ceased to act on him and his life belt kept him from falling from the pole.

The current continued to pass through Tucker's body by way of the metal arc light support. He was unable to release his grip on the support and hung there shocked into unconsciousness.

Hill, at risk to his own life, climbed the pole and struck Tucker's wrist with his gloved hand, releasing the grip. As Tucker wore no belt, he fell 18 feet to the ground.

It was at first thought the fall had caused his death, but an autopsy showed he had been electrocuted.

Sweatnam was unconscious when taken from the top of the pole, but was revived and taken to his home. His condition is serious, but physicians say he will recover.

Hill testified at the inquest and told how the accident was caused by his two fellow workmen standing up at the same time and thus forming a circuit through the arc light support and the ground wire.

$1 DEBT, 3 YEARS OLD, CAUSES THREE ARRESTS

Plasterer Demands Payment of Former Employer and Helpers Join in Fight.

Jake Specter, a plasterer, 2831 Stoddard street, when driving a wagon along Dayton street met David Silvermann, a plasterer of 2085 Carr street and loudly demanded that Silvermann pay him $1 that he said Silvermann had owed him for three years. He jumped on Silvermann's wagon and the two men fought.

Meanwhile, two helpers of Specter, Harry Todinsky, 2017 Division street, and William Lunstein, 1836 Wash street, attempted to pull a ladder from Silvermann's wagon. Specter, Todinsky and Lunstein were arrested.

Specter worked for Silvermann three years ago, and claims he still has a dollar coming to him for wages. The matter will be thrashed out in Police Court Saturday.

Cut Prices Offered as Summer Bargains in Men's Clothing.

Because of heavy sales last year the Wolff Clothing Co., Broadway and Washington avenue, has decided to buy in an extraordinary large stock of the Hart Schaffner & Marx styles for the fall, and in order to make room for the goods a sale of men's wearing apparel has just been started by the firm. This sale of the Hart Schaffner & Marx clothing includes all the latest summer styles, and the Wolff management declares that the cuts made in the prices vary from 25 to 35 per cent.

J. S. Wolff, head of the firm, says that he is eager to clear out the entire stock of the Hart Schaffner & Marx summer suits at bargain prices just as soon as possible. He expects that the fall shipments to his firm will begin within the next few weeks. He also adds that heavy business in the spring and early summer makes it possible for the firm to cut prices, now that the floor space is needed for the new goods. It is said that the bargains offered at this clearing sale are the best since the firm has been handling the Hart Schaffner & Marx clothing in St. Louis.

Frank Detective Indicted.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19.—C. W. Burke, a detective employed by attorneys for Leo M. Frank, condemned to death for the murder of Mary Phagan, 14 years old, yesterday was indicted for attempted subornation of perjury. Burke is accused of having attempted to persuade Nellie Ferguson, a witness against Frank, to change her testimony.

ABANDONED BABY FOUND

A 10-pound boy, not more than a few hours old, was found in a basket on the east side of McLaren avenue, between Newby and Tracy roads, about 4:30 a. m., Friday by Arthur Allmeyer of 3711 North Twenty-fifth street, driver for the Heydt Bakery Co. He turned it over to the police of the Mounted District who took it to St. Ann's Foundling Asylum.

The infant was nude and apparently in an excellent state of health. It was covered with a piece of newspaper.

MEN'S & YOUNG MEN'S SUITS

AT $10.00

Come expecting to find all the style, quality, workmanship and value usually seen in $15.00, $18.00 and even $20.00 Suits—and we assure you, you will not be disappointed.

THE PLAIN TRUTH IS—these Suits are entirely different from anything you have heretofore seen at this price—they are not $10.00 Suits in any sense of the word — they have all the air, style and tone of good, made-to-order productions — because they are strictly tailor-made in our own high-class tailoring shops on the premises—and that means a class of workmanship such as is seldom seen in ready-to-wear garments.

The range of fabrics is almost endless—and includes fine blue, steel and silver gray serges, rich worsteds, cassimeres, tweeds, cheviots and Scotch effects—in blue and brown diagonals, pin checks, pencil stripes, hairlines and herringbone weaves—in all the newest styles—and in every size to fit all men and young men.

In justice to yourself—SEE these Suits — let the fabrics, styles and workmanship speak for themselves—they tell their own story, and will convince you of the truthfulness of every claim we make.

Other Suits at $7.50, $15, $20 and $25

All of these are striking examples of the unequaled values this store is able to present, because we make all our clothing in our own tailoring shops, and sell direct from factory to you—saving you every cent of the wholesaler's profit.

Editorial

THAT word "Investigate" at the top of our announcement today, ought to carry a lesson to many a man.

Cut it out and paste it in your hat as a reminder.

To investigate thoroughly before you invest costs you nothing—but will add immensely to your knowledge of styles, qualities and values.

Women are considered careful, intelligent buyers—because they do investigate before they buy.

Many a man could take a valuable lesson from the women-folks in this regard.

MISHAP TO MACK'S INFIELDERS WOULD COST TEAM TITLE

Kopf Is the Only Infield Substitute Available in Case of Accidents.

Prior to Striking Out Baker Had Made Two Hits Off Baumgardner

J. FRANKLIN BAKER, the Athletics' famed third-sacker, was fooled by the shoots of Roy Mitchell in the ninth inning of Thursday's game, after he had hit two doubles off George Baumgardner earlier in the game.

Baker's first double was to left field, after Collins had singled in the sixth inning. No runs came on this occasion. He hit his second double to right center in the eighth, after Oldring had walked, and scored with his mate on Amos Strunk's home-run drive. Baker swung at and missed the third strike against Mitchell.

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

Cornelius McGillicuddy, maker of world's champions, believes in quality, not quantity, judging from the squad of players with which he seems destined to bag the 1914 American League championship. Mr. Mack is in St. Louis with a party of 28 persons. Of this number, however, only 20 are looked upon as active members of the ballplaying variety.

The squad is probably the smallest that Mack has ever chaperoned about the circuit and far in contrast to the party which John J. McGraw usually heads. There's a substitute for practically every member of the Giants.

The few ballplayers Mack has in tow now are capable men, even to the substitutes, but it seems that Mack's chances for losing the pennant this season lie in the possibility of injury to more than one member of his famous infield at the same time.

His lone utility man for positions on the lefthand side of first base is "King" Bill Kopf, who was obtained from the Toledo (American Association) team. Bill is a clever infielder and recently, when subbing for J. Franklin Baker, is said to have showed up "Home Run" in a fielding way. Of course, he is not a hitter like Frank.

Bill Orr Departs.

Kopf's coming meant the going of Bill Orr, one of Mack's utility men a year ago. Harry Davis continues as a member of the Athletics' party but could only perform in an emergency and then only at first base.

Mack's squad of active ball players includes:

Infielders—McInnis, Collins, Barry, Baker and Kopf.

Outfielders—Oldring, Strung, Murphy, Walsh and Thompson.

Catchers—Schang and Lapp.

Pitchers—Plank, Bender, Brown, Bush, Pennock, Wyckoff, Bressler and Shawkey.

The other ball players here besides Davis are Ira Thomas and Jack Coombs, the "iron man" member of the pitching staff, who has never lost a World's series game.

But Davis, Thomas and Coombs are hardly available. In fact Lapp has been doing all the catching recently because of an injury to Wallie Schang. Thomas could catch in an emergency but he'll not be called on if Schang and Lapp are available.

Thompson, parading as a utility outfielder, is the latest of Mack's school boy finds. He is 18 years old and hails from the University of North Carolina. He looks like a good prospect and has served in a few games this season. If he's good enough to be packed about with the Athletics, it's a certainty that he has something in his system.

Only One New Pitcher.

The interesting feature or unusual thing about the Athletics this season is that Mack has but one new member of his pitching corps. It's out of the ordinary when Cornelius doesn't dig up at least two pitchers who come though with aid for the veterans Plank and Bender. His newcomer is "Rube" Bressler, last season with the Harrisburg (Tri-State League) team. He's a lefthander and hasn't started a game this season, although he has shown some "stuff" in windups.

Coombs is almost certain to help later in the season, probably when he'll be needed the most. The Maine man pitched to the Athletics in batting practice before Thursday's game at Sportsman's Park. He looks a bit under weight, but has hopes of taking his turn later, after a slow process of regaining his strength.

J. Sheldon Wyckoff, who, with Joe Leslie Bush, proved the finds of Mack's 1913 pitching corps, is heaving the best ball for the Mackmen on the current Western trip.

Incidentally, the Athletics have been doing right well in this section of the country. After leaving Philadelphia, they stopped at New York for six games, four of which were won. Then they won three out of four from Boston and in the West, broke even in four games with Detroit, won three out of four from Cleveland and did likewise in Chicago. They met a setback in the opening game here. Since leaving home, the Athletics have won 15 games and lost 6.

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Next International Test.

JOHN BULL may have another international victory over the United States to add to his growing account, the first week of next July. On that occasion oarsmen from the United States will make their appearance in the classics of the Henley regatta, on the Thames River, England—the Grand Challenge Cup and the Diamond Sculls, the two most famous rowing events known to the world.

Great Britain will have trouble gathering her laurels in rowing this year, for the foreign entry list to the two races is something more than a casual one. In the grand challenge, a mile and five sixteenths are the Union Boat Club, the Harvard Athletic Association's crew (which will be the Harvard varsity seconds), the Winnipeg Rowing Club (Canadian) crew, and the Ruder Verein of Mayence, Germany.

St. Louis Boy Coxswain.

THE Leander Boat Club will uphold England's cause. The Union Boat Club, of which a St. Louis boy, Charley Abeles, is coxswain, is made up of former Harvard oarsmen, four of whom were Harvard captains. They are rated as having a good chance to win, although beaten in the American Henley race some weeks ago, due to a combination of bad breaks rather than poor watermanship.

The Harvard second varsity crew is practically as good as the first, according to Assistant Coach Brown of Harvard, who is here to handle the Mound City Club's crews.

England's Grip Weakening.

AS between the British and United States crews, the grand challenge race is no cinch for England, since the Cambridge and Oxford graduates who formerly made up the Leander eight are fewer this season due to the necessity of "going to work." Even the crew's captain has been compelled to resign, information from England states.

As to the Diamond Sculls: America has about the same chance to win as a lame man might have against the winner of the Indianapolis auto race. James B. Ayer and Paul Withington, both ex-Harvard men, and Tudor Gardiner of Yale are all U. S. starters. Withington seems the best of the outfit, reports say, but Eastern experts declare the chances of all three combined could be slipped in between the joints of a microbe's ankle—supposing bacteria have such utilities.

Oh, Mr. Austin!

WE note that Jimmy Austin has been in the game for the Browns solely on his nerve. SOME nerve, we heard the grandstand managers remark several times this week.

And, seriously, if James has been playing while unfit, responsibility for Austin's many misplays should be laid at the door of Manager Rickey, who let him remain in the game.

What Is an Amateur—oh Look!

IF the International Amateur Athletic Federation which recently heated its bearings at Lyons, France, trying to overtake the will-o-the-wisp definition of "amateurism" had applied the English rowing idea to the subject, United States would have to be represented at the next Olympic games largely by a team of college athletes.

Here are two sections of the British rules which define an amateur eligible to compete in the famous Henley regatta:

(1)—One who has never been employed in or about boats, or in manual labor for money or wages.

(2) One who has never been by trade, or employment for wages, a mechanic, artisan or laborer or engaged in any menial duty."

If the Southwestern Amateur Rowing Association of St. Louis were to adopt these two rules immediately, there wouldn't be enough oarsmen left in the Creve Coeur regatta to man a double scull.

This is England's famous "gentleman amateur" idea and has a tendency to bar the masses of the population of that country from competition in amateur sports.

Heard in the Grand Stand.

STRUNK, Barry and Lapp had singled in succession, filling the bases in the second inning of the Browns-Athletics game. Lapp overran first base and was crowded down to second, or near it, where Leary tagged him. About that time Strunk burned up the third base line and beat Leary's throw to Agnew, scoring.

"Oh, you bonehead!" screamed a grand stand manager, addressing Leary. "That was the rottenest play I ever saw."

And some assistant managers in the vicinity took up the cry, panning the hard-working Leary until thoroughly grilled.

I asked the G-stand manager what the objection to Leary's play might be.

"Why," he perspired, "the mutt! All he had to do was to sit down on first base and wait until Lapp came back to first. With the other bases occupied, there was no place for Lapp to go, was there?"

Seeing that argument was useless, we refrained from telling the G-stand manager what his wife would have said to him had he kept her supper waiting until the rules forced Lapp back to first base.

Not a "Joke" Suggestion.

THAT little pleasantry about having the eight surviving letter men of Washington University form themselves into a crew ought to pass from jest to earnest, in a broader way.

With the big Mississippi available and Creve Coeur Lake as well, the mystery is that Washington University students have never been able to put rowing on the map as one of the "regular" university sports, along with dandelion picking and "forfeits," so popular in the spring.

It may not be remembered that Washington tried the rowing experiment once. A local rowing club presented the university with a shell and Eugene Senseney, now a doctor of note in this city, actually assembled a crew! It never got as far as the racing stage, and the experiment "blew" like a charge of gun cotton.

Lack of money, lack of athletes, lack of ambition—we're playing this one for the winner—or some other lack supplied the explosive.

DAYTON WILL PROMOTE CENTRAL A. A. U. MEET

CHICAGO, June 19.—The Cleveland Athletic Club has entered ten men in the Central A. A. U. meet which will be held at Dayton, O., July 4. Many of the prominent clubs have already sent in their lists, though the entries are not to close until June 27. Among them is the squad of the Chicago Athletic Association, which will include twenty men. Reports that the C. A. A. would decline to enter a team because the Dayton promoters would pay expenses of only ten men were pronounced erroneous by Major Herman, who said the expenses of the entire squad would be paid if every man is of sufficient ability, in the eyes of the championship committee to warrant his making the trip.

ST. LOUIS BOY TO PILOT A CREW IN HENLEY REGATTA

Charles Abeles, Ex-Harvard Coxswain, Accompanies Union Boat Club Oarsmen Abroad.

Charles Abeles, a St. Louis boy, is a member of the Union Boat Club crew of Boston, which is now on the high seas, bound for London to participate in the Henley Regatta late this month. Abeles was formerly captain and coxswain of the Harvard University eight, and also served as coxswain of the Mound City Rowing Club crews in local races.

The Union Boat Club eight is composed of former Harvard oarsmen, four of whom, including Abeles, were captains of the Crimson crews. In recent letters to his father, Abeles intimates that the Union crew has a good opportunity of winning the Henley event, despite the fact that they will meet the best crews in the world.

The prospects for a victory are based on the fact that the crew is composed of some excellent material. It was beaten in the recent Poughkeepsie regatta by the Harvard eight, however, after the Union crew had twice been fouled by the Navy shell. At the finish the Harvard varsity led the Union crew by but four feet. This finish, in the face of all luck, leads the members of the Union Boat Club crew to believe they have a chance of winning abroad.

Accompanynng the Union Boat Club squad, which sailed June 16, are James Ayres and Paul Withington, ex-Harvard oarsmen, who will compete in the Diamond Sculls. A Yale representative is also entered in the singles.

JIM AUSTIN ORDERED TO TAKE A VACATION

Jimmy Austin, the Browns' peppery third baseman, who has been playing solely on his nerve for the last three weeks, because of an injury to his side, has been ordered to remain out of the game by Manager Rickey. He retired after the sixth inning of Thursday's game in favor of Ivan Howard, the utility man. Austin has insisted on playing because Howard has been spiked. Now that Howard is available, however, "Pepper Jim" will be forced to take a much-needed vacation.

SPORT SALAD

BY L. C. DAVIS

Ode to "Home-Run" Baker.

THE outlook wasn't brilliant for the Brownie boys, at that,
With two men out and two on base and Baker at the bat.
When, from three thousand throats or more, there rose a lusty shout;
For, Baker, mighty Baker, HOME-
RUN Baker, had struck out!

Now in this grand old city all the children romp and play
And you can bet your whiskers everything is bright and gay;
But over Philadelphia there hangs an awful pall,
For, Baker, mighty Baker, HOME-
RUN Baker missed the ball!

The rooters now are happy, since the Browns are running third,
But Connie Mack is doleful and he doesn't say a word;
And all the Philadelphias are plunged in deep despair,
Since Baker, mighty Baker, HOME-
RUN Baker fanned the air.

If Magnate Ward of the Brooklyn Feds could have seen Eddie Collins yesterday!

A Seasonable Jest?

Well, anyway, Jimmy Austin has lots of "pepper," whatever that is.

You can't stop a hot hopper by throwing pepper on it.

That looked like a perfectly good game of ball, yet those Athletics absolutely refused to accept it. Must want it handed to 'em on a silver platter.

However, as our old friend Monte Cristo used to say: "One!"

And Ditto J. Austin.

Eddie Collins owes one large vote of thanks to the official scorer.

Hans Wagner, who recently made the three-thousandth hit of his baseball career, went through the entire series with the Giants without a safety.

A Much Needed Rest.

Old Grandfather Hans wears circular pants,
But I tell you, my friends, he's a hummer;
He recently got his three-thousandth
swat,
And then he laid off for the summer.

Don't sprain your tongue on that "three-thousandth" stuff.

The Browns knocked a Plank out of Connie Mack's infield fence.

Mike Doolan of the Baltimore Feds caught a foul tip the other day in Chicago just as it was about to land on Mrs. Mike's $25 bonnet. Mike has to pay for those bonnets.

• • •

Wouldn't He Improve Rickey?

Rucker Ginn, the Naps' latest recruit, is Ty Cobb's sister's beau. Looks like first division for the Naps.

All those in favor of giving our ball teams a new first-division charter will please vote "Yes."

Ivan the Terrible has taken the place of Austin the Awful at third base.

Following the religious precepts of his boss, Roy Mitchell has taken up "rescue" work and is doing much good in his chosen line of endeavor.

LATE RALLY WINS ANOTHER BATTLE FOR HUG'S MEN

Wingo's Pinch-Single Drives In Decisive Tally in Ninth Inning.

BOSTON, June 19.—Winning ball games in the waning moments of battle is getting to be a nasty habit of the Cardinal club. The serfs of Manager Huggins came from behind yesterday and whipped the Braves, 6—5, scoring two runs in the ninth inning. To beat the Braves, whose record against the West now is nine won and four lost, Manager Huggins was obliged to use 15 men, four of them pitchers. But everybody came through with his share of the job and the Cards won under whip and spur.

Manager Miller Huggins is leading a far different aggregation of ball tossers than last year, and all Boston fans believe that in the trade whereby the Cards got Butler, Robinson, Dolan, Wilson and Jack Miller from the Pirates, St. Louis got the big end of the deal.

Wingo, who went to bat for Steele in the ninth, is very lame. Manager Huggins will not use him behind the bat against the Braves.

Judging from the way Manager Huggins acted on the field yesterday, he was not at all displeased to hear that Umpires Orth and Byron had left after the game for some other city. Huggins was after them both throughout yesterday's battle.

Roy Reeves, secretary to Gov. Tener, president of the National League, watched yesterday's battle. He will inform his boss of some way to shorten the games, believing that the tactics of throwing out a new ball on all fouls, whether the ball is knocked out of play or not. The game consumed two hours and thirty-seven minutes. The crowd totaled 4000.

Brooklyn Scores 6 Runs Off 16 Hits, Two Passes and One "Hit-Batsman"

Edgar Willett was in there with his glove and the desire to win Thursday, and, strange to say, he escaped with his life. The Brookfeds pounded him for 16 hits, four doubles and coaxed two passes, while Willett "beaned" one of the enemy. All of this netted only six runs, because three men were thrown out at the plate while Ward Miller, Boucher and Tobin made sparkling catches in the pinch. The Terriers scored four runs off as many hits.

Manager Brown had some secret reason for not benching Willett after the second inning, and, unfortunately, Mr. Brown never will make public that reason. However, there are a few fans who would give anything to know what peculiar sense of managerial duty prompted Mr. Brown to let Willett finish the game. Besides being hard on Willett, it was very severe on the fans, 240 of whom were present.

Brooklyn winds up this afternoon, and Otis Crandall will be on the firing line for the St. Louis entry. Sommers or Houck will pitch for the visitors.

224 Golfers in City Tournament at Glen Echo

Annual Championships Attract Big Field With All the Local Stars.

When the pairings were made Thursday evening for the annual city championship golf tournament, 224 names were chucked into a hat, which was some hat. The names of J. C. Van Riper and W. C. Scudder came out first, and they will tee off in the qualifying round at 9:02 o'clock Saturday morning at Glen Echo. There will be a lapse of three minutes before the second pair will start.

All the local stars, including Champion Harry Potter, Stuart Stickney, Ralph McKittrick, Christian Kenny et al, will compete, and the tournament promises to be one of the best in years.

HARVARD'S CREWS WIN TWO EVENTS; VARSITY TO COME

Second Eight and Freshman Crews Defeat Yale in Morning; Big Race This Afternoon.

REGATTA COURSE, New London, June 19.—Harvard defeated Yale in the second varsity eight race today by seven lengths. The contest was over a two-mile course from Bartlett's Point to the Navy Yard. The time of the winner was 11 minutes and 34 seconds; Yale, 11:42.

It was an easy victory for the men from Harvard. They caught the water first, pushed the nose of their shell out in front and then steadily increased their lead so that they finished seven lengths ahead of the Yale men. It was a slow race.

Harvard also won the freshman eight by defeating Yale by four lengths. The official time of the freshmen eight race was: Harvard, 11m. 46s.; Yale, 12m.

The Yale freshmen took the lead at the start, but within four shell lengths they were headed by Harvard, whose lead steadily grew until at the half-mile she was three lengths in the fore. Yale made her fight after the mile. She increased her stroke to 36 and cut down a length of Harvard's advantage. During the finish Yale's coxswain steered a wide course and Harvard, spurting, led over the finish line a winner by four lengths.

There was very little advance betting on any of the races, although Harvard ruled a presumptive favorite at 7 to 5 for the big race scheduled to take place late in the afternoon.

Harvard is reported to have sent over a bet to the Yale quarters at these odds, only to have it turned down.

In conservative circles, however, it was reported that Nicgalls had wrought many changes for the betterment of the Yale crew and it was expected to give the Harvard varsity crew a hard brush.

National Commission to Hear Demands of Minor League at Session Today

NEW YORK, June 19.—To plan a campaign against the Federal League clubs that have recently obtained the services of many players from the ranks of organized baseball, is said to be the object of the meeting here today of the National Commission.

The commission also has before it the ultimatum of Manager Dunn of the Baltimore International League club to waive the draft rule and class the International as major league or see the Baltimore team transferred by sale to Richmond, Va.

The appearance of Charles P. Taft in the city today gave rise to rumors that the Chicago Cubs were to pass under the control of a new president to succeed Thomas. This was denied by Mr. Taft who said that he had no power to name a new president for the Chicago club, and that his visit here had nothing to do with baseball.

Official Baseball Bulletin.

NEW YORK, June 19.—The following contracts and releases were approved by the National League and made public today by President John K. Tener:

Contracts with Boston, Fred F. Mitchell; with Cincinnati, Peter Schneider. Buffalo: Koestner; with Philadelphia, J. J. Hogan; with Pittsburg, Herbert B. Pruett.

Releases: By Brooklyn, unconditional, George F. Walsh; by Brooklyn to Toronto (I. L.) William Wagner; by Cincinnati to Columbus (A. A.) R. Harmon; by New York to Jersey City (I. L.) Alford J. Williams; by New York to Toronto (I. L.) Emilio Palmero; by St. Louis to Scranton (N. Y. S. L.) Frank Brower.

The Montana Boxing Commission has directed the management of the Copper City A. C. of Butte not to pay Bob Moha his share of the purse of the bout with Jack Dillon of Indianapolis until a thorough investigation is made. Chairman Cooney says the Milwaukee boxer put up a very unsatisfactory exhibition.

Assistant Coach Brown, of Harvard Crew, Here to Handle Mound Citys

ASSISTANT COACH ED BROWN of the Harvard University rowing squad is in the city to take charge of the summer training of the Mound City Rowing Club's oarsmen. He will "prep" his men for several big river events, and for two regattas, the Central States and Southwestern.

Brown refused to discuss for publication the chance of the Harvard crews in the Yale race. He intimated, however, that Yale had been benefited under Coach Nickalls.

"Nickalls has kept some English features to the Yale boat, Brown stated. The flat slides and thole pins are two points about the Eli rigging. The slides are shorter than Harvard's, being only 18 inches. Nickalls has placed his men in a line in the center of the boat instead of alternating his men on each side."

Brown likes the Union Boat Club crew, which will take part in the grand challenge race in England. He says the single scullers think they have a chance to win, too, but that is improbable, in his opinion.

Seven Riders on Scratch Mark in Big Cycle Event

Two St. Louis Men Among Stars in Forest Park Road Race.

Carl O. Schutte of Kansas City, a member of the Olympic cycle team which competed at Stockholm, is in St. Louis to take part in the annual 24-mile road race which will be held over the Forest Park course Saturday afternoon. Schutte, whose home is in Kansas City, will compete under the colors of the St. Louis Cycling Club of this city, a member of which he has been since the Stockholm games.

One other St. Louisan will be on scratch with Schutte, J. B. Freeman, also of the St. Louis Cycling Club. Of the 44 entries so far received seven have been placed on scratch. The other five out-of-town men on the back mark are: O. B. Byers, Western Mich. C. C., Detroit; Peter Himschoot, Louis H. Kuehl and Ralph Schepens, Chicago Cycling Club; Edward Kays, Newark, N. J.

Over 35 entries from St. Louis alone will compete. Among the other out-of-town entries expected to make a showing is J. W. Ross, an untried Kansas City boy, who competes from the four-minute mark.

Baseball Clubs Face Lean Year, Comiskey Admits

CHICAGO, June 19.—Baseball gate receipts have fallen off heavily and three major leagues this year will make less money than two did last year. The statement was made yesterday by Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago Americans. Comiskey declared that the public was weary of the wrangling and contract-jumping talk and of the emphasis on salaries which had thrown into the background the sporting features of the pastime.

"Minor leagues will suffer the same as the majors," said Comiskey. "It is all due to contract-jumping and the demoralized condition of the players.

"The public quickly tires of a star player playing with one league today and another tomorrow," declared Comiskey. "I am not attacking the Federal League in this statement. The Federal League has a right to exist. If there is room for three leagues, well and good. The gate receipts will tell the story.

"The players have a right to get more money if they can but not at the expense of their consciences in jumping their contracts. When the American League was organized and injected into baseball we want out to get all the star players we could but we never tried to induce a player to break a contract.

"It is not so much a question of losing money as it is of keeping up the standard of the game. If that is lowered, the public will desert it."

M. A. A. WILL NOT SEND TRACK TEAM TO KANSAS CITY

For First Time in Many Years Local Club Will Not Have Representation.

For the first time since the reorganization of the Western division of the Amateur Athletic Union, the Missouri A. A., formerly the M. A. C., will not be entered in the annual track and field games to be held in Kansas City the 27th of June. The Kansas City A. C. and the Missouri A. C. in the past have always been the main contenders for the division title and the latter's refusal to enter a team should take a great deal of interest out of the meet. No reason was given by the officials for not entering.

However, St. Louis will be well represented at the Kaw City games, as the Columbian A. C., with a team of 13 athletes is to make a strong bid for the honors. Tryouts were held at the McKinley High School campus Thursday evening, and the following athletes were picked to represent the South Side club:

H. Beck, 220 and 440 yard dashes; D. Grace, mile run; W. Mathews, five-mile run; J. Kayaing, five-mile run; J. Probst, five-mile run; W. Joern, high hurdles, discus hurl, 16-pound shot, 56-pound weight; R. Probst, 880-yard run, 440-yard dash; G. Armson, 100 and 220 yard dashes; O. Ruff, high jump, 56-pound weight; G. Futchtn, 440-yard dash; F. Weissmueller, 100 and 220 yard dashes; F. Langbein, 220-yard dash; D. Modisette, high jump, broad jump. The team is being coached by P. J. Fitzgerald. President Wuest, F. C. Ward and H. F. Zimmerman will accompany the athletes to Kansas City.

Many College Stars.

Six of the Western clubs have entered the meet to date, while at least 100 athletes will perform. The Kansas City A. C., Columbian A. C., Kansas A. A., Des Moines A. C., Louisville A. C., and Topeka A. C. have entered teams. The individual entrees outclass any that have ever performed in the A. A. U. games. At least one-half dozen college captains are entered. Some of the collegiate lights are Hazen, this year's Kansas captain; French, captain of Kansas two years ago; Woodbury, captain of Kansas four years ago; Thatcher, captain of Missouri this year; Weeks, captain of Illinois four years ago. All of these men will participate under the blue diamond of K. C. A. C.

These university stars will enter unattached: Reavis, the Nebraska pole vaulter, Hutsell of Missouri quarter-mile fame, and Parry, the Kansas hurler.

Cincinnati Seeks to Enjoin Marsans From Playing in St. Louis

Armando Marsans, the Cuban star who jumped to the St. Louis Federals from Cincinnati, was served with a subpena by a United States Marshal Thursday evening to appear Monday in St. Paul before Judge Sanborn and show cause why he should not be enjoined from playing with the local club. Marsans will leave here Sunday for St. Paul.

Because Marsans is an alien, a native of Cuba, he is being sued in the federal court. Marsans served the Cincinnati club with a ten-day notice of his intention of jumping and made good by hurdling into the local Fed park. What action the local club will take in Marsans' defense has not been made known.

FRANCIS OUIMET NOT AMONG FIRST 50; VARDON WINS

American "Open" Golf Champion 26 Strokes Behind Victor in British Classic.

PRESTWICK, June 19.—Harry Vardon of South Hertfordshire, England, today for the sixth time won the British open golf championship.

Vardon's aggregate for the 72 holes was 306 strokes. He made the first round in 78, the second in 77, the third in 78 and the fourth in 78.

The new champion won the title for the first time in 1896, when he was 26 years old. He took it again in 1898, 1899, 1903 and 1911.

Francis Ouimet, open champion of the United States, finished with an aggregate of 332, and was not among the first 50 competitors. He took 86 strokes for the first round, 79 for the second, 85 for the third and 82 for the last.

John Henry Taylor, last year's winner, who had led the field at the end of the third round, was second at the finish, with an aggregate of 309. His scores were: 74, 78, 74, 83.

J. L. C. Jenkins, who recently won the British amateur championship, led the amateurs in the competition with a score of 79, 80, 78, 83—315.

RITCHIE TO BOX WELSH IN ENGLAND ON JULY 7

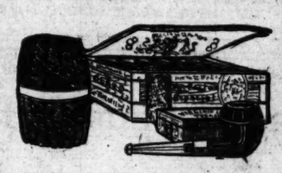

LONDON, June 19.—Final articles were signed today by Willie Ritchie of California, world's lightweight boxing champion, and Fred Welsh, the British lightweight champion, for their 20-round bout for the championship of the world, to be fought at Olympia, Tuesday, July 7.

Browns Move to Third Place When Mitchell Wins by Fanning Baker

ROY MITCHELL fanned "Home Run" Baker. Striking out Baker at any time is quite a feat. But when Franklin took three swings and missed in the ninth inning of Thursday's game at Sportsman's Park it brought to an end another of those rain-raising games which make young fans old. Mr. Baker's third swing inadvertantly permitted the Browns to beat the world's champion Athletics, 6—5, and move into third place in the American League race.

The Browns had accomplished something they have never done before, in whacking the aged Eddie Plank off the hill after four rounds. They also collected a pair of runs off Carroll Brown, who succeeded the left-hander, and when the ninth opened, enjoyed a 6—4 score.

But George Baumgardner, who had pitched nice ball up to the eighth, grew careless. He loafed on a lap from Walter Schang's bat and then kicked the ball about the infield. Baum also lost control and passed Jimmy Walsh, who trotted for Brown. At this stage, Manager Rickey yanked the West Virginian.

Roy Mitchell, who is earning a reputation as a saver of games, then came on the scene. He proved the big hero of the day. Murphy attempted to sacrifice and bunted, but Mitchell fielded the ball and tossed to Howard in time to force Schang at third. Then Oldring clustered a single through Howard and Walsh scored, but Murphy was held at second. With Eddie Collins and Frank Baker still to come, the prospects didn't look rosy with the tieing and winning runs on the bags and only one out.

But Mitch forced Collins to raise a short fly to Walker and fanned the famed Baker.

The Browns outplayed the World's champs. Their hitting was better and the base work was snappier. Of the 11 hits made off Plank and Brown, Pratt and Leary each collected three. One of Jack's blows was a long triple to left center.

Baum pitched his best ball in the pinch when Collins singled and Baker doubled for starters. With men on second and third and none gone, he prevented any scoring by forcing the next three batters. McInnis, Strunk and Barry to put up pop flies.

Much interest centered in Eddie Collins, the famed second sacker of the champs. Eddie had a miserable day in the field. He is charged with only one error out kicked at least three in the vicinity of second. However E. Trowbridge nicked a pair of singles.

Bert Shotton turned the fielding feature. In the fifth, Connie Mack sent in Thompson, the school boy, to bat for Plank. He lifted a low liner towards center field that had all the earmarks of a single. But Shotton tore in and grabbed the ball off the daisies while on the full gallop.

In the final stages of the game, Manager Mack showed "King" Kopf, his new utility man, at short in lieu of Jack Barry, and Wallie Schang, who has been out with a spiked hand, behind the bat, permitting Jack Lapp to take a much needed rest.

In the eighth, Oldring strolled and Baker doubled. With two gone, Amos Strunk lifted the ball in the right field seats for a homer, producing three runs and putting the Mackmen within reach of the Browns.

A crowd of 4500 fans turned out to see the new third placers and the present world's champions.

ENLISTED SEVEN TIMES; KILLS SELF ON ARREST

Private in 14th Infantry With Only Two More Years to Serve Shoots Self With Rifle.

SPOKANE, Wash., June 19.—With seven enlistments to his credit and with only two years to serve before retirement, Julius Denow, 45 years old, a private in company C, Fourteenth Infantry, U. S. A., ended his life with a rifle yesterday just after being arrested for being absent from his post without leave.

Denow's record gives as his nearest relatives his mother, Mrs. Louisa Denow of Trenton, N. J.

Denow was arrested upon his return to Fort George Wright and asked permission to pack his blankets before being taken to the guardhouse. He went to his quarters and shot himself.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK IN PHILADELPHIA JULY 4

City Plans Greatest Independence Day Celebration Since Centennial in 1876.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—Philadelphia intends to make its Fourth of July celebration this year not only safe and sane, but the greatest it has held since 1876, when the one hundredth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence was observed through the holding of the centennial exposition.

President Wilson will be the orator of the day, and will speak from a platform close to the spot where the immortal document was signed.

The celebration will be under the auspices of the city, and is expected to include a military parade.

Beginning Tomorrow Morning at Famous-Barr Co., the Much Awaited Yearly Mid-Summer

Sale of Men's & Young Men's Blue Serge Suits

A Very Timely & Important Occasion Because This Season, as in Others Past, Blue Serge Suits Are the Dressy Suits for Mid-Summer Wear

BLUE SERGE SUITS are the typical summer suits—dressy in appearance, light in weight, correct in style, cool & comfortable & certain to give complete & lasting satisfaction.

Tomorrow the great mid-summer sale occasion begins, which for a long time has been the signal to men & young men for the most advantageous buying of blue serge suits & which has long ago established this as THE STORE FOR BLUE SERGE SUITS.

More complete than ever before are the stocks this year with more models for choosing & the good fortune of an advantageous purchase of materials brings greater values than we have been able to offer before.

In the merchandising plans of this occasion we make "short cuts," buying the materials direct from the mill, making sure of the quality & obtaining price concessions because of the immense volume of cloth used by the largest retail clothing organization in the world of which this store is a principal member. Serges are all pure worsted, fast indigo blue & every yard is London shrunk. Suits are hand-tailored & sewed throughout with silk thread & finished to measure up to the high standard of excellence which we demand.

Five special price lots there are, with—

Pure Worsted "American" Serge Suits, Men's & Young Men's sizes, also stouts & slims—

ARMY WORM AS OWL MOTH COMES BACK TO COUNTY

Caterpillars Which Damaged Crops Return in New Form, Housewives Apprehensive.

The army worm seemingly has come back to St. Louis County in as great numbers as before, but this time in a new guise—that of an owl moth.

County residents breathed a sigh of relief two weeks ago when millions of army worms disappeared as mysteriously as they had come a month before. But the caterpillar family had only declared a truce, to disguise its army worms as owl moths and send them back to be as pestiferous as possible in their night travels.

Moths by Millions.

The moths have come in droves, just as the army worm came. Residents estimate there are billions of them. They fly about the county, apparently penetrating screened porches.

In rapaciousness the moths have all the attributes of the army worm. The army worm caused many thousands of dollars' damage by eating corn and timothy crops. One division of the army worm, under some bug general about as daring as Pancho Villa, invaded the new St. Louis Country Club grounds until golf no longer was a pleasure on links made slippery by stepping on army worms, and life on the verandas intolerable, even though porters were kept busy sweeping off the invaders.

The coming of the army worm caused a large number of county residents to study up on the worm and its antics These experts now are spending their days and nights arguing about the moth. Some say the moth is the army worm come back to life in a new form. Others say the army worm is the outgrowth of the moth.

Worm in a New Guise.

Those who contend the army worm has become a moth cite the dictionary as proof. The dictionary defines the army worm as the larva of a noctuid moth that occasionally appears in vast numbers and marches over a country, destroying young grain, grass, or the like. In insects, the larva is the first stage after leaving the egg, so that it undoubtedly is true that the moth is the army worm in its new guise.

These new county visitors are called owl moths because of their dusky tints and nocturnal habits. Their nearest allies are the tiger moths, which are day-flying and bright-colored. The owl moths are sometimes called owlets.

So far county residents do not know what damage the owl moths have done Housewives are apprehensive about clothing which has not been packed away in moth balls,

OVERSUPPLY OF MEN ANSWERS HARVEST CALL

Thousands of Unemployed Laborers Pouring Into the State Seeking Work.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 19.—The call of the State Labor Department for 30,000 harvest hands in Missouri has filled the State with an army of unemployed men who beat their way on freight trains in such throngs, railroad men say, that they are a serious hindrance to traffic, a menace to property and that hundreds of lives are in danger every day.

"Our westbound trains on this division have carried more than 1000 men during the past week," said Division Superintendent John Cannon of the Missouri Pacific here today, "and we are powerless to help ourselves.

"Each train carried from 25 to 60 men and they laughed at the train crews when they were ordered to leave the cars. The conditions became so intolerant that our management yesterday stationed four policemen at Kirkwood, where all westbound trains are stopped and searched."

Freight Conductor Emmet Meyers of the Missouri Pacific said he never had seen so many men beating their way on freight trains.

"Every train is alive with them," said Meyers, "and they interfere with our work. We find them riding on the couplings, and their lives are in danger every time we switch a car. The men on my trains have been of every nationality and range in age from boys wearing knee pants to men past middle life."

APOLOGY MADE AT THE EMPRESS WRECK INQUIRY

Lawyer Says He Didn't Mean to Imply Ship Owner Tried to Send Witness Away.

QUEBEC, June 19.—The Empress of Ireland wreck inquiry opened today with explanation and apologies by C. S. Haight of counsel for the owners of the collier Storstad, which sank the Empress. He said he had not meant to imply yesterday that the Canadian Pacific Railway, owner of the Empress, had tried to spirit witnesses away.

This was the impression made by Haight when he placed on the stand James Galway, a quartermaster of the Empress, who testified that the ship's steering gear was defective. Galway had told him, he said, that he was about to be sent to England.

DIDN'T DRIVE CARELESSLY

Louis F. Abel, Charged With Speeding, Released.

Louis F. Abel of 4432 Delmar boulevard, who was arrested June 6, after running down William Dickerson at Tenth street and Washington avenue, was discharged in Police Court when the city dismissed a charge of careless driving.

It was erroneously published in the Post-Dispatch at the time of the arrest that Abel had been charged with speeding on Lindell boulevard, between Union boulevard and De Baliviere avenue.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Of Interest to Young Women.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

There is in a recent issue of the Post-Dispatch a wail from a stenographer on account of a lack of work for the experienced ones. She complains that the so-called business colleges are continually turning out graduates who will work for next to nothing.

Whose fault is it that she is not the wife of some man, with a youngster or two about her knees, in a happy home, performing the duties that the Almighty intended her to do? That she and her whole sisterhood are in a position that nature never intended them to be in, is her own fault and no one's else. Her entry into commercial life lowers the standard of wages and forces the man who naturally would be her husband and the father of her children, to work for a wage that will only suffice to maintain himself. A few years ago, before the modern woman invaded the business field, a male stenographer commanded a salary of $25 per week. Today that class of work is so cheap that for a man to admit that he is a stenographer by profession is a disgrace.

I am a man in moderate circumstances, in receipt of a moderate income; also I have a little daughter who gives promise of blossoming into a beautiful young woman; and until she marries she will remain home; she won't attend any business college or become a "business woman." (These two words as they are applied today give one a pain). When she reaches a marriageable age (17), I will see to it that she is thrown into the company of young men who are worth while—young men who, when the open season arrives, calls the dog and goes out for quail; young men who can stand up to the trap and break 80 per cent—not the mollycoddle type, who go in for tangoing, tennis and ping-pong. And nine times out of ten you will find my sort of young men breaking 80 or 90 per cent at the business game. By the time she is 21 or 22, I hope to be holding a grandchild in my arms.

Being a "business woman," hammering a type writer, will most certainly not accomplish the above stately result.

Alton, Ill. OBSERVING FATHER.

Neglected City Children.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We read about the new public baths, also about the camps for the benefit of children suffering from incipient tuberculosis.

In the meantime, however, we observe that boys and girls are roaming the streets long after nightfall, barefooted, ragged and of course in a very unsanitary condition.

It is very largely a case of cause and effect. Later in life these same children will be more subject to disease on account of the previous exposure.

Some action on the part of the Board of Health or other duly constituted authority would, in my opinion, be worth a thousand pure food laws.

WILLIAM MEARA.

The Button Day Campaign.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We write at this time to thank you for the space in your splendid paper you so kindly donated for use in our "button day campaign." We are grateful, indeed, to all who assisted us on that day, for it means so much to our large family during the summer.

We thank you in the name of the board and in behalf of the babies for this assistance. May all sorts of good things come to you for your remembrance of those who are less fortunate. We are, yours sincerely, in behalf of the little folks,

MRS. T. R. AYARS,
President Mothers', Babies' and Children's Home, 3861 Plymouth avenue.

Patriotic Evil.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Can it be possible that the St. Louis Librarian indorsed the atrocious sentiment, "My country, right or wrong!" If we are to be damned for doing wrong, shall we not be damned for doing it for our country? Possibly I should do wrong for my country, if put to the test, but don't you think I would make the matter public or publicly approve by even singing I would say as little as possible about it.

FIAT JUSTITIA.

THE BIG CINCH CHARTER.

Dr. William Preston Hill, former head of the People's League and leading opponent of the 1910 charter, is an arnest supporter of the new charter.

Answering the charge of the irreconcilable remnant of the People's League that the new charter is a "Big Cinch" charter, Dr. Hill emphasized the point made by the Post-Dispatch that THE OLD CHARTER IS THE BIG CINCH CHARTER BECAUSE UNDER IT THE BIG CINCH CAME INTO BEING AND HAS FLOURISHED.

The record of the old charter reeks with boodle combines by which St. Louis was robbed of millions in franchise values for the benefit of wealthy conspirators.

Under the old charter Butlerism thrived to the great profit of boodlers and the privilege plunderbund.

Under the old charter the Central Traction franchise, the foundation of the street railway consolidation deal, was bought from the Municipal Assembly for $250,000 and sold to the promoters of the United Railways for $1,250,000. Subsequently the capitalization of the properties was raised to about $110,000,000, more than three times their value.

Under the old charter gas franchises were obtained through boodle combines and the gas monopoly was formed.

Under the old charter the electric monopoly was organized.

Under the old charter the people were helpless to resist the plundering schemes of the Big Cinch and their boodle allies in the city government; two years ago they had no means of blocking boodle legislation or of initiating measures. They have never had the power to recall corrupt and inefficient public officers.

Under the old charter the people could not own nor operate a public utility, except the water works; public utilities had to be granted to individuals or private corporations. They were shamefully boodled away by corrupt officials.

Under the old charter the city hall was packed with spoilsmen; political bosses distributed the offices and increased them for spoils purposes.

THE ADOPTION OF THE NEW CHARTER WILL ENABLE THE PEOPLE TO PUT A STOP TO ALL OF THIS CROOKED WORK. UNDER IT THE PEOPLE CAN BLOCK BOODLE DEALS, DEFEAT BAD LEGISLATION, INITIATE GOOD MEASURES, REMOVE CORRUPT AND INCOMPETENT OFFICIALS, PUT THROUGH NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS AND ASSURE ECONOMICAL AND EFFICIENT GOVERNMENT.

THE NEW CHARTER IS NEEDED TO CHANGE THE CONDITIONS CREATED BY THE OLD CHARTER, TO BREAK THE GRIP OF THE BIG CINCH AND RESTORE THE CONTROL OF THE GOVERNMENT TO THE PEOPLE.

MR. LORIMER'S WRECKED BANK.

When John R. Walsh's Chicago bank was closed, it was found that the money of the institution's depositors had been depleted to carry on railroad, quarry and other losing ventures of its president. Mr. Walsh was sent to join the large colony of Federal bank officials in prison.

If the La Salle Bank of Chicago had in its vaults the money it has lent to interests represented by its president, its doors would not now be closed. It would be able to satisfy its current obligations in the business world. The depositors visiting it to put money in would exceed the depositors rioting at its quarters to get money out.

A statement has been given to the public showing that the bank placed no less than $1,573,000 of its funds in the securities and loans of interests represented by ex-Senator William Lorimer. The Southern Traction Co. of unpleasant associations in St. Louis, is said to have drained $890,000 from the bank in various operations.

Transaction of bank business seems to have been a subordinate part of the institution's functions. Its chief purpose was acting as an agency to supply William Lorimer with funds. Mr. Morgan emphasized character as an asset in the financial world. It was an asset of which Mr. Lorimer brought little to add to the other resources of the La Salle.

VENETIAN ISSUE AT PITTSBURG.

Charles Menser of Pittsburg, for whom fellow employes gave 102 inches of their cuticle to save his life in skin-grafting operations after an accident, refuses to join the strike at the Westinghouse works. The strikers are much incensed and a publication devoted to their interests prints the demand that "he give us back our skin."

No Portia is needed to point out that the case for the 102 in square inches of skin in Pittsburg lacks even some of the equities of the faulty case for the one pound of flesh in Venice. The latter was in the nature of a plea for specific performance and was overruled. But in the former case, contingent surrender of the 102 inches of skin was not denominated in the bond. As a matter of fact, not even the precaution of requiring a bond seems to have been taken. About the only remedy will be to sue out a writ of replevin and proceed by attachment. But the rule laid down in the Venetian decision (Atty.-Gen. ex rel. Antonio) makes even this a dubious and hazardous legal step. In replevining the skin no blood must be shed. To exceed by the twentieth of one poor inch or even by the width of a hair the exact 102 square inches in cutting out the skin will give ground for ruinous legal consequences.

Unless they can invoke the judicial recall on the Venetian precedent or find a Judge who will disregard it, the strikers had better avoid a court action. Provided they are not insistent on the recovery of the identical skin they donated, no doubt they will be resourceful enough to devise their own ways of taking 102 inches' worth out of Mr. Menser's entire area of hide.

A keen sense of honor was shown by Capt. Griffiths, who confesses that he took Uncle Sam's money to requite his obligations to fellow officers who had invested in his lumber speculations; also a queer sense of honor.

ST. LOUIS AS A SUMMER RESORT.

Not even Luther E. Smith will deny that St. Louis shows true summer resort form, now that summer is really opening. If St. Louis was slow in rounding into form it was no slower than summer itself, which officially opens on June 21. We've been no slower than the Eastern and Northern resorts, where the bellboys are hardly recruited until the colleges let out.

As a regular railroad-folder, cut-rate, excursion-point, tourist-trapping summer resort St. Louis is some, believe us. It is as summery as it is resortful or resortish, containing more than the usual number of varieties of delightful weather, a Mecca for the meteorological faddist and the meticulously fastidious in matters of Fahrenheit, the last resort of people who complain about climate elsewhere. But it is by no means a climate reserved for the exclusive enjoyment of experts, specialists or cranks. It is designed on hospitable lines with a cordial appeal to the multitudes as well as critics, and its popularity, as well as reliability, is attested by the fact that over 600,000 of our best people remain here to enjoy it every summer.

Our climate has a perfect Southern exposure, with an unsurpassed outlook upon the Switzerland of Missouri, the Ozarkian region, and, beyond, the tall peaks of the Cumberland range whence waft—but why dwell upon but one outlook? To the west we are open to the climatic influences of plain, plateau, and, further, snow-capped mountain; to the north, the appropriate winds from that quarter properly tempered to adapt them to this locality; and to the east, the constant refreshment of the Father of Waters laving our levees, splashing our very threshholds, and spraying our vast steel recreation pier unrivaled by Coney Island or any other city in the world.

One does not have to be a philosopher to appreciate St. Louis in summer. It has fewer mosquitos than Atlantic City, fewer flies than New Bedford, fewer scandals than Newport. It has barely fewer beer gardens than Munich and more fountains than Versailles. As a Spa, its waters have excellent mineral properties, in no way related to watered mines, but recommended for free use internally as well as externally. Bathing and boating facilities are unsurpassed. Catfishing and crawfishing are as good here as they are anywhere. There are delightful walks, and especially drives, all about. Free golf links and tennis courts. Free band concerts in the parks. Dancing in the evenings. River excursions by moonlight. Free art gallery. Free library. Three big league teams. Home cooking. For rates and particulars apply Business Men's League.

PUBLICITY IN PARDON CASES.

Paying tellers would need no minimum wage if a year at Leavenworth were made the standardized equivalent of $15,000 of embezzled bank money. The action by the Pardon Clerk of the Department of Justice seems about as informal as those of a pardoning Governor in a state. The District Attorneys neither recommended nor knew of the release of Harry Baseler, defaulting employe of the Third National Bank of St. Louis. The bank from which the money was misappropriated was not consulted. Leavenworth prison officials were not asked as to the record of the prisoner.

Greater publicity should attend the exercise of clemency in such cases.

STORY OF THE CHARTER

No. 6. Initiative and Referendum.

THESE are big, new words which we must get used to. The ideas back of them are big ones, and were never heard of 38 years ago, when our present out-of-date charter was drawn up. They mean that the people may govern themselves when the officers they have elected fail to do the right thing.

Under the new charter, if 5 per cent of the voters want a law passed, they will petition for an election on it. The Election Commissioners must call the election and if a majority of the voters vote "yes" the law goes into effect without any action by the Aldermen or Mayor. If 10 per cent of the voters petition for a change in the charter then there must be an election on that.

This is called the initiative, which means that the people initiate, or start, the passage of the law themselves, without calling on the Aldermen.

This power may never be used by the people. It may be enough to have it set out clearly in the charter that the people can do so if they wish. Under the present charter they cannot make their own laws, except through the House, Council and Mayor. We have had situations in which these officers have refused to do what the people wanted and told angry citizens they would not pass certain laws, no matter how many people wanted them. They are not likely to be so high and mighty when 5 per cent of the voters can take the law-making power out of their hands and restore it to the people who made them.

Then there is the referendum, which means the referring of a law, that the Aldermen have passed, to an election by the people.

When the Mayor approves a law passed by the Aldermen, 2 per cent of the voters may, under the new charter, by petition suspend that law. If, 10 days later, 7 per cent sign the petition, the Aldermen must vote on the bill again within thirty days. If the Aldermen defeat the bill then that ends the matter; if they pass it again, an election must be called, at which the people of St. Louis will say whether it shall become a law or not.

If we never use this power, the people of St. Louis have needed it during the time they have been living under the charter of 1876. It holds th Aldermen directly responsible to the people, and that is the big thing all through the new charter.

In the next article we will explain other novel ideas which bring the new charter up to date.

THIS IS THE LIFE.

THE CHARTER FORUM.

Shall you vote for the new charter, or against it? Or haven't you decided? Get a copy and read it, or read Col. Gardner's every-other-day analysis of it in the Post-Dispatch, and write us your opinion of it, favorable or otherwise. Post-Dispatch readers are the most powerful group of voters in St. Louis. They can adopt the new charter or defeat it. We feel sure a large majority of them favor it. But we want to hear from both sides. Make your letters brief—not more than 100 words.

1910 and 1914 Charters Compared.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In what respects is the new charter you now ask us to vote on an improvement over the one the papers of this city tried to induce us to pass in 1910? State just what clauses are an improvement and in what respect. Also what clauses this one contains that were omitted in the 1910 charter.

Also state, if you will, why no Socialist was placed on the Board of Freeholders, as thousands of voters in this city who vote that ticket would like to receive a full explanation.

Do you know of any good reason why five men should have power to nullify the wishes of 30,000 or more voters, as provided for in one of the articles?

ONE WHO WANTS TO KNOW.

(The 1910 charter provided for election of a Mayor, Comptroller, President of the Board of Assessors, Collector, President of the Council, and 15 members of a one-chamber Council; the 1914 charter further concentrates responsibility by providing for the election of only the Mayor, Comptroller and President of the Board of Aldermen, and recognizes the claim of local interests by providing for election of one Alderman from each of the 28 wards.

(The 1910 charter did not provide for the initiative or referendum, and it required petition of 25 per cent of registered voters to recall an elective official. The 1914 charter permits the people to initiate ordinances on petition of 5 per cent of the voters, or amendments to the charter on petition of 10 per cent, at regular elections; or of 7 per cent for ordinances or 15 per cent for charter amendments, at special elections. The 1914 charter permits the people to take a referendum vote on ordinances passed by the Board of Aldermen on petition of 7 per cent of the voters, at regular elections, or of 12 per cent at special elections. The Board of Aldermen is forbidden to repeal any ordinance, which was passed by popular vote, within a year after its passage; and if such repeal by the Board of Aldermen is voted, the people can get a referendum on the repeal ordinance, and defeat it if they see fit, on petition of only 5 per cent of the registered voters. The 1914 charter provides for recall of elective officials on petition of 20 per cent of the voters, including 20 per cent of the voters in at least two-thirds of the 28 wards.

(The 1914 charter provides for a more closely knit, responsible and presumably efficient organization of the administrative departments than did the 1910 charter.

(The 1910 charter provided that the city government might "regulate the use of the wharf and harbor," etc. The 1914 charter provides that the city may "provide and maintain a harbor and wharves and regulate the use thereof," etc.—enabling the people, through their community business house to get for St. Louis the benefit of thorough development and use of St. Louis' biggest natural asset, the river—a benefit which it does not get and seems unlikely ever to get, so long as it waits on private citizens, afraid of the railroads, to do the work of development.

(These are a few of many points in which the 1914 charter is more democratic and efficient than the 1910 charter; the 1914 charter is as far ahead of 1910 charter as the 1910 charter was ahead of the 1876 charter now in use.

(Each party nominated a ticket for election to the Board of Freeholders; the people elected some of the nominees of each of the leading parties, but did not elect any Socialist.

(The 1914 charter, providing for initiative or referendum, says: "Each of the papers comprising the petition shall contain the proposed ordinance in full and designate by names and addresses five persons as the committee of the petitioners." Four of the five committeemen are given power, 75 days after the petition is filed with the city, and not acted upon, to withdraw it. The five committeemen merely act for the 30,000, who obviously could not act for themselves, in a body of that size. Does anybody seriously believe four of five such committeemen would ever, in such a situation, and in full view of the public, deliberately betray the cause entrusted to them? If so, then no man can trust another in any relation of life.)

Getting Their Wires Crossed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Extremes sure do meet in this charter campaign. At the Twentieth Ward Democratic Club's joint debate this was nicely illustrated last Thursday. Mr. Gardner was billed for the affirmative side and Mr. Rowe for the negative. The heat was too much for Rowe and he sent a Mr. Safford for his substitute. Anyone reading the daily papers even carelessly on this charter question is acquainted with the following: First, that Mr. Rowe, as one of the charter framers, refused to sign the document because it provided for 28 Aldermen; Rowe wanted only 14 Aldermen. Second, the Socialist party is opposing the charter primarily because it would reduce its chance of representation. And, ye gods, what do we hear at this Twentieth Ward meeting? It is coolly announced that Mr. Safford, a Socialist, will be the representative of Mr. Rowe, who wants only 14 Legislators, while the Socialist party wants the 28 Billigotes and the 13 Councilmen of the old charter retained. Is it not passing strange that Rowe, the champion of a single-chamber-14-member-legislative-body should be represented by a Socialist champion of a two-chamber legislative body? Will somebody please answer?

THE RIVER OF DOUBT.

Just as we expected would be the case, all of Col. Roosevelt's critics took to the mainland when our redoubtable explorer appeared in England to defend his story of the River of Doubt. He duly appeared before the Royal Geographical Society with his proofs, traced his journey upon a map, and clinched his title as the discoverer of his river with the implied indorsement of official applause. Following that he stuck around London a few days. Nobody said Booh! It was all just as he said, or that is, no one ventured anything to the contrary. Those temerarious critics who jumped on his good name when he was on this side of the ocean were not to be found. They skedaddled at the first sight of invasion.

The Colonel discovered the River of Doubt. There is no doubt about it. He ran the wrong way under fire for the world to believe anything else.

The United States Government plans to make our national parks more attractive by offering hotel builders long term leases instead of the year-to-year contracts now in vogue. It is thought that by inducing people to build fine hotels in the parks the Government can make these breathing places inviting to thousands of people who would otherwise spend their vacation money abroad. No doubt about it. Why not also pay the expenses of foreign fortune hunters who will come over and spend the summer in the parks? That is what thousands of rich American young women and their mammas go abroad for, and if the hunting both ways were as good over here, it would be a tremendous thing for the parks.

A gentleman who is somewhat familiar with agricultural conditions in Missouri thinks it may become necessary for the farmer to give up the automobile for a season. The drouth of last year has been followed by another dry season of almost equal severity, the Hessian fly has been about, and the army worm has been on the warpath. It is a question whether the farmer should attempt to live on his former plane until the balances of Nature can readjust themselves. Country people may have to live like city people for a while. One does not ordinarily think of them denying themselves, but it is a hard world once in a while.

There is genuine ingenuousness in a local minister's story of what happened when he appeared before President Wilson and asked a pardon for a young embezzler in the Leavenworth prison. When the President came to sign the pardon, he asked one question—what the young man did with the money. The minister answered that his client had lived beyond his means, whereupon the President promptly signed. Did the reverend gentleman know that this is the administration's tenderest spot? Probably not. It just happened.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

BEAUTY CULTURE.

INTERESTED.—Peroxide and ammonia may to some extent discolor the skin.

D'AMOUR. — Astringent lotions must be employed to reduce the large pores and so prevent these from being clogged. The nose especially is affected with enlarged pores and frequently these extend over the cheeks. Among the most simple and efficient is camphor water, an astringent which is made by dissolving a quarter of an ounce of borax and half an ounce of glycerin in a pint of camphor water. This liquid should be applied with a bit of medicated cotton or old linen cloth, wiping gently so as not to irritate the skin. Go over the skin again to insure perfect cleanliness and this is allowed to dry on.

BLUE EYES.—A beauty writer says: There is no way to lighten hair that has gradually darkened except to use a bleach, and I have always condemned the use of bleaches. There is, however, a very good shampoo for light hair which is said to keep hair from darkening: Combine the juice of two lemons with a teaspoonful of salts of tartar and a quart of water. The salts of tartar should be first dissolved in the water, which is warm; then add the lemon juice, strained. There will be a moment of effervescing when the lemon juice and salts of tartar meet. Wait until this ceases before using the shampoo. After thoroughly washing the hair and scalp, rinse clean in several clear waters and dry the hair in the sun. Don't use this oftener than once every two or three months.

CLEANSING.

SPORT.—Grease on tan shoes: Cover spot with a thick paste of fuller's earth and ammonia. Leave 24 hours, then rub off, after which clean shoe with cut banana. To clean tan shoes: wash a raw potato, cut into two or three pieces, rub the potato well into the shoes. Be sure not to miss any part, or the tan will show where the potato has missed. Let it dry, then apply polish twice with a quick light motion, which will give a finely polished boot or shoe.

HEALTH HINTS.

KEYSTONE.—See a physician about the swelling that is accompanied by peeling of the skin.

N. C. T.—For your biliousness, study yourself. Eat only enough food to keep your strength, and only that which agrees with you. Fasting might help you. Exercise all the muscles. Good lemonade, not too sweet, might be helpful. Don't mix your fruit and vegetables. Try eating not more than two kinds of food at a meal. Salt rubbed on the tongue relieves from the furred feeling. For constipation, eat plenty of bran; olive oil has helped some; petroleum jelly has helped others.

S. R. G.—The bites of certain insects and the stings of others are really the punctured wounds, through which a poison is introduced into the blood. This latter circumstance accounts for the inflammation, which is generally quite out of proportion to the size of the wound, and in certain irritable constitutions or those of peculiar sensibility, requires constitutional treatment. To paint the spot with liquid ammonia is perhaps the most effectual remedy for the bite of a gnat or a mosquito. The bites of these insects frequently produce a lump. This lump and the irritation it causes, or what resemble nettlerash. At the top of the lump can be seen the tiny puncture. The best way to allay the irritation and discomfort is to apply vinegar, alcohol or ammonia to the spot; also a solution of soda is somethimes effective in children's cases. A weak solution of boric acid is very good, and peroxide of hydrogen is also used. Persons sometimes out are often attacked by black flies and the effects are similar to the bites of mosquitoes. The same remedies are used, too. When a person is stung by a bee or wasp, give the patient a mineral volatile and extract the sting, as it is generally left in the puncture. The place should then be treated with liquid ammonia and sweet oil. It is advisable to avoid scratching or otherwise irritating the wounds of any insects, as this intensifies the suffering and delays their healing.

CONSTANT.—A clean hygienic bran may now be obtained from any up-to-date grocer. Natural taste has been so perverted that what we eat must be sugared or salted or peppered, vinegared or mustarded. So, this bran, the taste of which is not unpleasant to a natural taste, must, for most people, be baked into something or mixed with something in order to conceal with the unnatural taste. Bran is proving in many instances an invaluable aid in correcting many physical disorders consequent upon the forced sedentary method of living. Some physicians are relying upon its daily moderate use to correct sluggish functions and giving no medicine at all, only bran "recipes" instead of prescriptions. Here are some bran recipes: Bran gems—One egg, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ cup sugar, if liked sweet, 1 cup milk, 1 cup flour, 2 cups bran, 2 teaspoons baking powder and a pinch of salt. Bake in gem pans in a hot oven. One-third of a cup of currants may be added, if desired. Bran muffins—Two coffee cups fresh bran, ½ cup flour, 1 egg, a little salt, 1 pint milk. They take just 15 minutes to bake in a quick oven. Bran bread—One quart bran, pint white flour, ¼ cup molasses, 1 teaspoon soda, dissolved in a little of the molasses. Mix all ingredients well together and bake in a square or oblong pan one hour. A housewife writes: I have been making my bran bread, enough stiffened with white flour to roll out on a board and cut like cookies, baking them a half hour in a moderate oven. They taste well eaten with butter. They keep perfectly in a covered earthen vessel for many weeks, thus saving the trouble of frequent bakings, which seem necessary with the bread and muffins. Sour milk or buttermilk is much better than sweet to make them—and sour cream is best of all.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BILL SCRIBE.—Try phoning film companies.

KIRKWOOD.—Talk with several reliable commission merchants in regard to retail prices and arranging vegetables for market.

MONTEZUMA. — Lowest temperature June 10 to 13, 1913, inclusive: 48, 54, 61, 63, 64. Lowest, 47, on the 9th. Highest of the month, 99, on the 29th.

STRANGER IN ST. LOUIS.—Clayton High School is a good school. As to how it compares with other high schools we have no definite information.

SCRIPTOR.—If you wish any particular illustrator to illustrate your story, write to him about it. Writers of magazine story is not required to send illustrations with it.

S. B. L.—Wedding toasts: 1. Around the bride's uncloaked brow the orange wreath we twine, and drink her health as low we bow in sacramental wine. 2. May life's cloudless sunshine lighten all your coming days, and contentment bless and brighten all your future ways.

VOTER.—States having local option: Alabama, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin. Prohibition states: Arkansas, Georgia, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, West Virginia.

GWENDOLIN.—The four-handed game of tennis is played by two persons on each side in a double court (36 feet wider on each side than the single court) in a manner similar to the single-handed game. In the service the ball must drop in the rectangle bounded by the service, service side and back court lines. If W and X were playing Y and Z, the order of the service is WYXZ, WYXZ, etc. The service is returned alternately by the two partners who are strikers-out throughout the games; but when once the service has been returned either partner may take the ball. Dern his long, hungry picture, anyhow! I might 'a' knowed a cussed flat car like him would be a hoodoo, not t' speak of his connections with 23!" And Bill gave a vicious tug at the bell rope in response to the conductor's signal to pull out.

Nothing more was said as the great engine drew her train of coaches out of the train shed, and threaded the mazes of the yards, but once free from the city, and bounding along to the rythmic hum of the exhaust, the engineer's curiosity prompted further questioning.

"So you were at a Halloween party last night, were you?"

"Yep. There was to be a party up to his girl's house, an' nothin' would do but I must go 'long; so, like a derned, gibberin' idjut, I said I would, an' he called for me at 8 o'clock."

"You see, it's this way. I'm some sweet on Maggie Donovan, who lives on th' West Side, and have been conductor on her train for some considerable spell. Generally I'm on a regular run with her for engineer, but I wasn't called for last night, an' supposed she was in th' back shop for repairs, or maybe had slipped an eccentric, so she couldn't get out.

"Old Gawky didn't say a word about her bein' at that particular doings, though it seems she had it framed up with him t' surprise me.

"She surprised me, all right, all right! Derndest, most successful surprise party I ever had run in on me. Say! I sailed into trouble as innocent as a lady telegrapher at a night station!

"When we got there, Jim introduced me to about a dozen peaches, an' there bein' a couple of odd ones, I proceeds immediately t' annex myself to a nice, yaller-haired beauty.

"She was a pippin, all right! One of them gals that's a regular silk-plush upholstered, mahogany-lined parlor car, with gold-plated trimmin's. One of th' kind that snuggles up to you like a seat-box cushion when you're tired.

"We was in one corner on a sofa, gettin' thicker than two engines pullin' one coach, an' she had just took a rose from her shiny yaller hair an' was pinnin' it t' my coat, leanin' over some closer than seemed absolutely necessary, an' I was fixin' up her hair where she took th' rose out, when I happened t' look up, an' jumpin' side rods, if there wasn't Maggie standin' in th' door lookin' at us an' that big mutt of a brother of hers with her!

"Say! She didn't say a word, but I could see red flags wavin' all around just as plain! Th' air was full o' 'em. She let out a splutter or two, like she was tryin' her gage, an' then she just yanked her cylinder open an' sailed out on th' main line, runnin' wild under 200 pounds pressure, with th' throttle wide open an' the lever clear down in th' corner!

"She landed on Yallertop, an' in just two-fifths of a second the air was full of rats, switches, hairpins and squeals. Yaller was game, though, an' it wasn't all her head gear playin' tag with th' chandelier—not by a derned sight. I tried to butt in an' separate 'em, but something—I afterward found it was Her brother—coupled on behind an' double-headed me across th' room before I had a chance t' jam on th' air an' stop.

"Him an' me mixed as soon as I could work th' turntable; then some more of th' fellers an' a few of th' girls got an idea they had runnin' orders, an' proceeded to mix in th' muss.

"Say! I'll bet it took th' wreckin' crew all next day t' clean up th' battlefield.

"Mag's brother an' me finally rolled out of th' front door an' down th' porch steps, gettin' separated in th' process, an' when I got up I just opened er up on sand under 250 pounds pressure of pure scare.

"I knocked down a whole section of picket fence gettin' out of th' yard, an' jumped a street car without even flaggin' it.

"I could hear the sounds of war above th' noise of th' car as I rode away, an' Mag's brother howlin' invitations t' me t' come back an' get properly licked.

"Th' street car pilot asked me 'What's th' matter in that house back there?' I told him they was tryin' t' capture a wild woman, escaped from th' jungles an' let it go at that. It wasn't none of his business, nohow!"

"What! You didn't run away, did you?" inquired the engineer.

"Huh! Betcher life I did! I'm no John L. Sullivan, am I? Do I look it? Nix! I'm just an ordinary, every-day fireman, an' no pacifier of a lunatic asylum.

"Run? Say! When I got back on th' rails, after separatin' from that brother of Mag's, I just dropped a whole box of sand, an' it would 'a' hustled a passenger engine t' 'a' made my time t' that street car.

"I don't know just how Mag an' her brother squared it with th' rest of th' bunch for startin' th' row, an' I don't care a dern, either. But if we was t' have a head-ender with th' 23 tonight, an' Long Jim was t' get killed, I wouldn't shed a tear—you hear me?"

"But how are you going to square matters with Maggie, Bill?"

"Square nawthin'! No runaway engines for mine! Steady associatin' with dynamite might spoil my nerve. She carries too blamed much steam, an' when she blows off she's consid'able too violent! I thought she was a nice little eight-wheeler with her pop set at about one-forty, instead of bein' a consolidated mountain climber carrying two-twenty-five without a simmer! Not for mine! Nay, nay! No more for Willie!"

And Bill cracked a lump of coal 12 inches thick with one swipe of the coal pick.

Here's Why Mrs. Gaynor Has a Place in the Who's Who Book

Marguerite Martyn Tells Post-Dispatch Readers of Another St. Louis Woman, Scarcely Known at Home, Yet Whose Songs for Children Have Made Her Famous the World Over, One Lullaby, Alone, Having Brought Her a Small Fortune.

By Marguerite Martyn.

"WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA," one of whose purposes is to discover to their own communities persons who are better known abroad than at home, probably again accomplished that purpose when it included the name of Mrs. Jessie L. Gaynor in its list of 11 St. Louis women.

If St. Louis is ignorant of harboring greatness in this case, the remissness is, in a way, pardonable, since Mrs. Gaynor has resided here since November only.

To be sure, she was born in St. Louis but that was in 1863, and her family moved away from the old home at Twenty-ninth and Locust streets, when she was a child.

Mrs. Gaynor followed the business fortunes of her husband, Thomas Wellington Gaynor, from Kansas City recently, and, with their daughter, Rose, they have been living quietly at 1289 Hamilton avenue since.

So quietly, indeed, has Mrs. Gaynor lived and pursued her work, that it is doubtful if even the neighbors know that the songs issuing from the third floor apartment are new-born melodies, heard for the first time, but destined to be heard round the world.

But then it is doubtful if a narrow, conservative, old fogy, thinks-it-knows-it-all world of grown-ups ever will really and truly know Mrs. Gaynor. That is except the Peter Pans among us who do not entirely grow up, and who still are able to speak, or at least, understand her language. It is in another world, but a greater, growing, unlimited world, the child world, in which she has established her claim to greatness.

In the child world Mrs. Gaynor's works, if not her name, are as familiar as—more familiar, of course—than A B C. She reaches little minds at their earliest stage of perception in a childish idiom of the universal language, music.

SHE reaches them even when they are not perceptive, for all babies are being rocked to sleep nowadays with her "Slumber Boat" song. And when I say babies all over the world, that is true. For the "Slumber Boat" has been translated into many languages, and travelers returning from India, China, Egypt, Australia tell of hearing it crooned over cradles by mothers in those far lands.

For some of you who are so old as to have missed hearing it, I am going to write the words. They almost sing themselves.

Baby's boat, the Silver Moon,
Sailing in the sky,
Sailing o'er the sea of sleep
While the clouds float by.

Baby's fishing for a dream,
Fishing near and far.
His line a silver moonbeam is,
His bait a silver star.

Sail, baby, sail,
Oout upon the sea.
Only don't forget to sail
Back again to me.

It probably wasn't such fascinating titles as "I Love the Old Doll the Best," "Tired Shoes," "The Fog Ship," an operetta, "Hovering Butterflies," "The Clover Tops," "The Cucumber Doll," that attracted the attention of uncompromisingly prosaic old compilers of a biographical dictionary. More likely it was the reports from publishers of the wide sales and success of the Gaynor works. Or, perhaps, it was under the other condition, having done something out of the ordinary which distinguishes her from the vast majority of her contemporaries, that Mrs. Gaynor qualifies for "Who's Who?"

Certainly it seems to me her calling, that of writing songs exclusively for children, is unique. I was curious to know what qualities combined to produce such individuality.

I found her, as might be expected, an ideal mother, with a heart and understanding large enough for all children, not merely her own;

A woman of fine physical bearing, as she would need to have to accomplish her output, and work, as she says she does, like a steam engine, so many hours a week.

I FOUND her, withal, a practical and thinking woman, ready to apply every new aid to efficiency on herself and those she teaches.

My attention first of all was called to a pile of twelve new and shining volumes, some slender and dainty and gayly illustrated enough for a child's hands and a child's mind to grasp; others, great and bulky, to be handled by parents and teachers.

"A recent gift to my family; our complete works," said Mrs. Gaynor "She said 'our' to include the contributions of her two daughters and the verses of Mrs. Alice C. D. Riley of Chicago, who writes the verse of nearly all the songs. This latter colaboration has lasted over 18 years—a circumstance unusual enough among musical colaborators, to warrant a story in itself, I thought.

And I was to learn that these volumes containing some 400 songs and eight operettas, are merely incidental, a sort of by-product of Mrs. Gaynor's chosen work, which is teaching and singing in recital with her daughters, Miss Rose and Mrs Dorothy Gaynor-Blake of Nashville, who are known professionally as the Gaynor Trio.

"It is odd about one's beginnings' said Mrs. Gaynor" and how interdependent the various directions of my work have grown to be. My songs would not respond to the child mind as they do if I did not keep constantly in touch with children through my teaching and continuous study of their needs. I probably never should have begun composing for children if it had not been for the demands of my own little girls whose education in music has always been a chief object in life. I took them both to Berlin every winter for four years that their studies might be carried on without the distractions inevitable in a city where they grew up. Meanwhile I continued to perfect my own method and returned with renewed knowledge to teach in schools and conservatories.

"I have developed all sorts of theories in the musical education of children. And not only their musical education, for music is an excellent study to develop the mind in other directions.

"IT is an exact science just as mathematics and as much so as architecture. It will be found that the terminology of architecture and music are much the same. "Musicians have been very conservative, very backward about taking up new things, "she went on to say, "I think if psychologist's have found out anything about how the human mind works, I have a right to that knowledge and I don't hesitate to appropriate it. Recently they are teaching children to write before they learn to read.

"On the same principle I teach them to sing before they go to the piano, to compose music before they play it. They become, in a way, singers and composers before they know it. It is merely a matter of drawing upon the creative instinct which is in them all. I don't know if it is also the Montessori system. My daughters and I were invited to give a demonstration of our method in the school at Rome and Mme. Montessori was much interested in the application.

Mrs. Gaynor theorized and spoked learnedly, but there was nothing academic or stiff in the atmosphere of this home.

A colored buttons boy, scarcely more than a pickaninny brought us cool drinks, and for all his formality one could see he is a pet of the family.

Daughter Rose, sewing in the next room and "too hot to appear," kept chiming in with the most musical voice and charmingly affectionate attitude toward her mother.

There was an air of prosperity about the music room which belied a too austere devotion to art.

At one point, when Mrs. Gaynor, was telling me how the royalties of "The Slumber Boat" alone had amounted to a small fortune, I made bold to ask just how much.

"Oh, Rosebud, dear," called her mother, "Do you remember what we figured the latest returns from the 'Slumber Boat'?"

"Dearest, dreadful!" came the response, "I don't think it would be a bit nice to make public such a matter. At least," with characteristic Gaynor frankness, "We oughtn't to rub it in."

The fact remains, however, that beyond what "Who's Who" discovered for us we have in our midst that unique thing, a child-song shop, and if there were a word that meant something more than unique, a music composer who is growing wealthy at her art.

Early Stargazers

THE first observation of the transit of Venus by American astronomers was made 145 years ago from a temporary observatory fitted up in the State House yard in Philadelphia. This successful observation, which practically marked the beginning of scientific astronomy in the New World, was in charge of the American Philosophical Society, an organization of the foremost scientists and savants of the America of that period. The society was founded by Benjamin Franklin in 1743 and was the parent body of the hundreds of scientific associations in the United States and Canada. The transit of Venus over the sun's disk has interested astronomers ever since it was first observed by Horrock in England in 1639. Observation on the passage of Venus over the sun's disk is the best method of ascertaining the distance of the great luminary, and in recent years American astronomers have engaged in elaborate observations, notably of the transit of Venus in 1882, when the American photographic methods were used with great success. The only important phenomenon of this character in 1914 will be the transit of Mercury on Nov. 7 next, which will be partly visible in the eastern portions of the United States and Canada.

Thirteen acres of land in Columbus, O., are to be utilized as a municipal nursery for plants, shrubbery and trees. The trees and plants will be raised for transplanting to street parkways. It is said that workhouse labor will be employed on the property.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—ADV.

The Adventures of Pussy Puss

She Wouldn't Mind Her Mother, Gets Stung by a Bee and Hides in the Grandfather's Clock.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

PUSSY PUSS was a white kitten and her mother, Gray Puss, tried to bring her up to behave as a well-mannered kitten should behave, but Pussy Puss was full of mischief and Mother Gray Puss had a hard time of it.

"Pussy Puss," said her mother one morning, "I am going down by the barn to get a mouse, now you are all dressed in your slickest coat and don't you get mussed while I am away."

Now, all would have gone well if she had stayed right in the sun on the steps, but she didn't, a bee flew past her and as the door was open the bee went into the house.

Pussy Puss followed, jumping at the bee and trying to hit it with her paw, but the bee was too quick and flew too high for Pussy Puss, and perhaps it did not even see Pussy Puss anyway, it kept on flying, and upstairs it went and Pussy Puss followed it.

It alighted on the side of the door at the top of the stairs, and this was Pussy Puss' chance. She went up to it and tapped it with her paw.

"Buo-z-z-bu-z-z" went the bee and "m-e-o-w" went Pussy Puss, and away she flew looking for a place to hide from the horrid animal with a pin that pricked dreadfully.

On the landing half way up the stairs was an old-fashioned clock, and someone had left the door open; that was the place that first struck Pussy Puss' frightened gaze, and into it she went, landing at the bottom and she huddled into the corner and kept very still.

In a minute after someone passed up the stairs and seeing the door of the old clock open, they closed it without seeing Pusy Puss in the bottom.

By and by Pussy Puss got over her fright but not her hurt, for her paw still hurt very much, but she wanted her mother, so she tried to get out.

Just then the most awful noise, sounded like thunder, Pussy Puss thought, it seemed as though it would never stop; 10 times it sounded, and then all was quiet.

Pussy Puss was so frightened that she did not move or cry for fully five minutes, she thought that terrible animal with a big pin had returned with all his friends to stick her again.

By and by she cried "me-ow, me-ow," but no one heard her, then again that terrible noise came, but only once, and then all was still and Pussy went to sleep.

But she was awakened by that awful noise again and this time it sounded 11 times before it stopped.

Pussy Puss jumped up and something struck her and then all was still, very still, for before that she had not heard a little ticking sound and something had moved back and forth, but it had not touched her before.

Down she lay again and went to sleep, and this time she slept without that dreadful noise frightening her.

The next time she awakened she heard some one coming up the stairs and a voice said, "What can have happened to the clock; I never knew it to stop before; it was wound this morning?"

Then the door opened and Pussy Puss cried "me-ow" as loud as she could.

"Well, how in the world did you get in here?" asked her mistress, "and what is the matter with your paw? It is swollen."

"Me-ow, me-ow," answered Pussy Puss, and then Mother Gray Puss heard her child and came running up the stairs.

"Your baby has hurt her paw," said her mistress; "we have to put a bandage on it."

So Pussy Puss had a cloth bound on her paw and something that she did not like the smell of put on it.

That afternoon when they were lying in the sun Pussy Puss told her mother about the animal that had the big pin and hurt her foot.

"That was a sting, not a pin prick," said her mother, "but how in the world did you get in the clock?"

"I hid in there to get away from the buzzy animal," said Pussy Puss, "and then it came back with all its friends and tried to find me. Oh, such a noise as they made! Bang! Bang! Bang! ever so many times, and then stopped for a long time and then they began again."

"That wasn't bees," said Mother Gray Puss. "It must have been the clock striking."

Pussy Puss did not feel sure about it but every time she was near the clock when it struck for a long time after that she would run and hide until it ceased.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

TRANSLATED BY HELEN ROWLAND

MY son, thou hast come unto me, saying:

"How shall I know my Heart's Desire when I meet her?

My Son, by these signs shalt thou recognize Her.

Hath she said:

"Alas, why didst thou not call yesterday, when I was becomingly arrayed? For now I am a SIGHT?"

Hath she called thy neckties "good" and sought to pluck invisible specks from thy coat lapel?

When thou hast tried to sit more near; when thou hast sought to clasp her hand in thine; when thou hast been upon the point of kissing her—hath she cried:

"What MUST you think of me? Yea, what SORT of a girl must thou believe me?"

And when she has quarrelled with thee and sent thee from her hath she straightway dispatched thee a sweet note upon the following morning?

Hath she said:

"I love the aroma of tobacco, but I beseech thee do not smoke TOO much lest it be not good for thee?"

Hath she called thee upon the telephone in the morning and in the afternoon and in the evening concerning matters of no importance and refused to reveal her name, saying:

"Guess who it is?"

Hath she left her gloves in thy coat pocket?

Hath she told thee of the "other man" whom she "cannot love?"

Then, my Son, be not afraid.

For she is the Real Thing; even the Boiler Plate Electro of Femininity, which is thine "IDEAL," and every man's.

Yea, she is a Regular Girl! Selah!

First English Martyr

THE first martyr to Christianity in England was St. Alban. He lived in the third century and was a soldier under the Emperor Diocletian before he embraced the new faith.

After leaving the army he returned to Britain and became the first English victim of the persecution of Diocletian, who prohibited Christian worship on penalty of death. Alban was beheaded in the year 286. During the following years of the Emperor's reign and the administrations of his immediate successors thousands of Christians in all parts of Europe were put to death.

Houses filled with Christians were set on fire and many other followers of the faith were bound together with ropes and cast into the sea.

Official figures fix the number of cows in Hungary at 2,820,000, of which more than two million are pure-blood animals.

MODERN MILLER

Rain stopped operations for several days in Kansas wheat fields, but the ground has dried sufficiently to permit the resumption of cutting, which is now general, except in the western part of the State. The labor situation is satisfactory and harvest hands are distributed in large numbers all over the State. Additional rains in Kansas and Nebraska would cause apprehension. In the soft wheat belt harvest conditions have been generally satisfactory. Rains in Northern Missouri and Tennessee have hindered operations somewhat. Oklahoma and Illinois promise early shipments of wheat.

Wheat futures developed a slightly steadier tone Friday, despite favorable crop and weather advices. Liverpool cables were higher on a better Continental demand, and professionals covered contracts on the theory that the market is oversold.

Corn futures were easier. The weather map was ideal for the growing crop and there are few if any complaints on conditions. Cables were firm, but without influence on sentiment. Receipts were moderate. Oats were quiet and steady.

Shorts covered and speculators supported at the opening in Liverpool and values were ⅛d to ⅜d higher, notwithstanding flattering reports regarding the results of American harvesting and better weather. During the morning there was a further advance of ⅛d to ⅜d on fewer and firmer offers of winters, talk of smaller Atlantic shipments this week and expectations of lighter world's shipments. Indian offers are firmer and Russian offers are lighter and more firmly held. The continental demand is again becoming active and fears are felt for moderate-priced offers as the season advances.

Liverpool corn opened unchanged and later July advanced ¼d with the firmness in Buenos Aires, good spot for new Plate and steadier Plate offers, notwithstanding the favorable weather in Argentina.

Minneapolis wheat cars were 76, against 98 last week and 175 last year. Duluth 43, against 52 and 64. Winnipeg 257, against 214 and 202.

Liverpool wheat closed ¼d to ⅜d up; corn ⅛d higher. Antwerp—Wheat unchanged. Budapest wheat ½c higher. Paris wheat unchanged to ¼c higher; flour unchanged to ⅜c higher.

Broomhall estimates the wheat shipments this week exclusive of North America at 7,600,000 bu, against 8,728,000 actual last week. Of this total Europe will take about 6,400,000 bu. Total shipments last week amounted to 11,936,000 bu and last year 12,448,000 bu. Arrivals of breadstuffs into the United Kingdom will aggregate about 3,600,000 bu. He predicts there will be a good decrease in the amount on passage to the United Kingdom.

Australian wheat shipments this week 640,000 bu last week, 968,000 bu; last year, 960,000 bu. Since Jan. 1, 48,616,000; same time last year, 33,352,000.

Indian wheat shipments this week 1,400,000; last week, 1,264,000; last year, 2,136,000. Since April 1 5,448,000; same time last year, 14,356,000.

Argentine wheat shipments this week 736,000 bu; last week, 1,172,000; last year, 1,734,000. Since Jan. 1, 31,526,000; same time last year, 93,594,000.

Oats this week 400,000; last week, 470,000; last year, 271,000. Since Jan. 1, 23,931,000; same time last year, 55,691,000.

Corn this week 2,917,000; last week 2,704,000; last year 6,010,000. Since April 1, 26,674,000; same time last year, 41,994,000.

Van Duzen, Harrington Crop Letter, says: "Rainy weather continued the balance of last week in Northwest, but this week has been, speaking generally, clear and cool, conditions uniting to make ideal growing weather. The additional rains have caused no damage in South Dakota, except as they have prevented the cultivation of the corn fields. Rain was not so general in North Dakota, being more in the nature of local showers."

New York wired: "Looks to me as if there would be trouble with June corn shipments from Argentina. Far as I can ascertain, only one steamer has been named so far, and that was some time ago, and she has not cleared yet. Sellers are rather scarce and asking considerable more than yesterday."

Clearances: Wheat, 227,000 bu; corn, 3000; oats, 24,000; flour, 34,000. Wheat and flour, 380,000.

Chicago wheat cars Thursday were 10, corn 179, oats 97. Inspected Friday: Wheat 28, corn 81, oats 122.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN.

THE POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

ROCK ISLAND IS FEATURE IN THE EASTERN MARKET

Some Bonds of Railroad Company Advance While Others Decline Sharply.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 19.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The Rock Island Railway debenture 5s yesterday morning were 70; today these reached 77½ on what appeared to be very confident buying. In direct contrast to this movement, was that of the Rock Island Railroad collateral 4s. Yesterday morning these securities were quoted at 32¾; this afternoon they sold as low as 30, which was beneath any price quoted for them, even in the period last spring when there was most agitation over Rock Island matters. Common and preferred shares of the Rock Island company today sold at previous low figures, but failed to establish new records.

"So far as the market was concerned, the opposite movements of the Rock Island Railway and railroad bonds strengthened the belief that the plan for procuring necessary capital for re-establishing the properties was nearing perfection.

"A 7-½ point rise in the railway bonds was taken to mean that holders of these securities were relieved over the manner in which they would fare in a reorganization, while the break of 2¾ points in the railroad bonds appeared to measure the extent of concern felt over the ultimate outcome of the securities. There was a small reaction in the railroad 5s before the close.

Trading Is Very Quiet.

"As an indication of the broad tendencies, the movement of prices on the New York Stock Exchange was as meaningless as that of any other day this week. Again the total of sales was less than 100,000 shares, and though prices for the most part were higher than those quoted yesterday, advances were too small to have signified any marked improvement in financial sentiment. In the bond market there was some special activity in Rock Island issues, but this was for reasons apart from those governing in the general market.

"Perhaps the most significant incident of the day was a further sharp fall in the rates for sterling exchange; for the first time in five weeks sight drafts on London sold below 4.88. The rate of 4.87& compared with 4.98⅛ on Tuesday; the extent of the three days' decline made it appear certain that the gold outflow to Europe, on the present movement, is about ended.

"There was an additional engagement of $1,500,000 announced for Paris today, but that was before the rate for sterling bills fell below 4.88¼. Of the $54,750,000 gold sent to Europe since May 5, only a single million was secured with sterling rates below 4.88. That was the initial engagement of the movement.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S WALL STREET TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, June 19.—Rock Island securities were the chief subject of speculative activity in the early stock market today. The debenture bonds developed exceptional strength. They bounded up 4¾ to 77¼, a gain of more than 7 points in two days. The refunding bonds jumped 1½. The collateral and the common and preferred stock, on the other hand, were lower. These movements were interpreted in the light of the report that an assessment of about $30,000,000 would be levied on the stock. The general market movement was narrow and irregular, with a fairly firm undertone and a majority of small advances. Engagement was announced of $1,500,000 more gold for export.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Stock prices hardened slowly during the morning. Another sharp break occurred in demand sterling, making a drop of about 100 points in three days. Bonds were irregular.

Sales of bonds in the first hour were almost $1,000,000 par value and more than half of the total for yesterday's full session. Two-thirds of this trading was in the Rock Island issues, which was believed to foreshadow an announcement, possibly later today, of the reorganization plan. Rock Island collaterals continued to fall. They touched 30, a drop of more than 2 points, and the lowest figure at which they ever sold.

Speculative interest was at a low ebb after midday. Popular stocks were dealt in to the extent of only a few hundred shares in an hour and prices scarcely moved. Erratic fluctuations of the Rock Island bonds continued. Debentures reacted 2 points, while the collaterals made up half of their early loss.

Mercantile Trust was higher in the local market again Friday, the price gaining 1½ points on bids at $341.50, without sales. Offers were far away at $345 for small lots. St. Louis Union Trust was steady on a trade at $390 cash and Bank of Commerce sold at unchanged figures at $122.50 ex-dividend 2 per cent. Bankers' Trust had $50 bid without offers.

The demand in United Railways issues was limited and no sales of the stocks or bonds were recorded. Prices established on the issues were unchanged from Wednesday's call.

The miscellaneous list was quiet and prices unchanged. Bonds were steady on the issues mentioned.

St. Louis Money Market.

It was welcome news to learn that Treasury aid would not be needed to help move the large crops of 1914, but most of the St. Louis bankers were inclined to look upon this report with more or less doubt. These rumors usually appear at this season of the year, and have always been discredited before the crop-handling period was well under way. As a matter of fact, the St. Louis banks and trust companies have been actively assisting their out-of-town friends in preparing for any usual emergencies this fall and to that may be ascribed the recent hardening in interest rates. Quotations were 4½ to 5 per cent at the end of the week, although prime commercial paper was not above the first mentioned figure. Demand funds are still to be had at 4¾ per cent.

Mercantile Trust advanced to $345 at the afternoon session of the exchange and closed with $344.50 bid and none offered. Other shares were quiet and steady.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—Quarantine receipts today were light, being about the same in volume as the native supply. Market showed no change. Ordinary grass steers are now bringing $7.00, while in average seasons the best beeves would not command this price.

HOGS—The market was active, with prices on a 5c higher basis, and closed firm with a good clearance. The top was $8.47½ and the bulk of the offerings went at $8.30@8.40. Shippers and city butchers paid $8.40 and up for the good, smooth hogs weighing 180 pounds and over, while the mixed and plain grades went to the packers at $8.15@8.35, and roughs, $7.85@8.10. Best lights brought $8.10@8.35; best pigs, $7.85@8.10, and others, $7@7.75.

GOOD WEATHER SENDS COTTON MARKET DOWN

NEW YORK, June 19.—The cotton market opened lower today, under more or less general selling, seemingly inspired by weak cables and favorable weather advices. First prices were barely steady at a decline of five to ten points, and active months sold down 13 to 17 during the earlier trading.

Reports of low night temperatures in the Eastern belt helped to steady the market later in the morning, but failed to inspire any important demand. Prices were still about 8 to 12 points net lower shortly after midday.

Vegetables.

NEW POTATOES—A good demand absorbed all offerings of fair to fancy quality—latter kind in scant supply; receipts of moderate proportions included considerable dirty, grubby and badly heated and leaking, and such confined mainly to Texas stock—some would not bring freight. Fancy sound smooth sacked triumph brought $1.25 delivered, while prices otherwise ranged from $1 to $1.20 for resacked and stock reasonably free of dirt down to as low as 75c for very dirty and off-conditioned goods. Sacked white quotable at $1.05 to $1.10 for choice; inferior less.

OLD POTATOES—Firm. In light offering on track and from storage (mainly latter), and selling in a jobbing way at 95c to $1@1.05 delivered and some reported at $1 track for fair to fancy rural.

ONIONS—Higher and firm; receipts light and sound large-sized dry onions in demand. Home-grown red sold from farmers' wagons at $1.50 to $1.75 per bu box and 3c to 4c per pound by weight; and resold by dealers at 4@4½c per pound. Louisiana sacked fancy large quotable at $4@4.25 per 100 pounds delivered; 300 cummer crates Texas yellow sold at $1.75 delivered.

STRING BEANS—Steady, with a good demand for choice young tender round green beans; dry, ropy and coarse beans dull and low-priced. Quote: Southern Mississippi and Alabama hampers at 50c to 75c; Boonville, Mississippi hampers at 90c@$1 and Tennessee long hampers at $1 to $1.15—one lot of 37 hampers at $1.15. Southern Illinois melon baskets green and wax at 50c. Home-grown round green sold at $1 to $1.25 per bu loose.

CUCUMBERS—Firmer; choice green in firmer offering and better demand; culls and whitish colored very dull. Quote Alabama freight and express receipts at 25@40c per hamper for culls to 80@85c for choice green; Illinois melon baskets at 50@55c.

CARROTS—Home-grown sold at 25c per dozen bunches.

EGGPLANT—Fancy Florida at 50c@$1.50. Louisiana in barrels at from $4@5 and hampers at $1.50.

TOMATOES—Lower; one car Texas flat crates fancy acme (early) at $1.60 delivered, one car do (later) at $1.50 delivered, one car flat crates Mississippi (Nos. 2 and 1) at $1 to $1.35 delivered. Express receipts Alabama 4-basket crates quotable at 90c@$1 for red variety and $1.25 for acme, and express lot Mississippi flat crates green sold at $1.

CABBAGE—Market lower and dull; Mississippi crates at $1@1.40; Alabama crates sold at 50c delivered; home-grown selling at 10@40c per bushel box loose; Tennessee small crates at 50@75c delivered.

Coal Trade Fair.

The Coal Trade Journal says: "Normally this is a dull time in the coal trade. With the heaviest discounts of the anthracite schedule past and with the early shipments on the big soft coal contracts already accomplished, June generally reflects or rather anticipates the coming of the summer season of inactivity in the coal business. But this year is different from others and we now find the hard coal trade holding up very well and the bituminous business on the up-grade rather than retrogressing. Both developments might be termed normal. The anthracite business is steadily working around to the point where the mines will be assured of capacity work the year 'round, while the soft coal condition is simply a reflection of the fact that if coal is not bought at one time it must be bought at another. Sales were very moderate, comparatively speaking, in April and May and so it is merely an appropriate reaction that brings more business into the market in the month of June with prospects of better times to follow very soon, as further replenishing of supplies becomes necessary.

The Jarr Family

By ROY L. McCARDELL.

The Jarrs Will Camp "Safely and Sanely."

"A LOT of folks are going camping this year," remarked Mr Jarr, in an endeavor to break the news to his wife that he would like to go gypsying with the tenting party Gus and his compeers were getting up.

"Nice people?" asked Mrs. Jarr. "Why, yes. How foolish of me to ask such a question! The Stryvers have a lodge called 'Potluck Camp,' and the whole place is delightfully rough and ready and Mrs. Stryver says even the baby grand piano and the phonograph are both made to order in imitation of rough hewn logs, and it cost a small fortune.

"And 'Potluck Camp' has its own refrigeration system with an ice machine, because Mrs. Stryver says she buys everything in the city and has it brought out, because it is so difficult to get fruit and vegetables, to say nothing of milk and cream and meats and fish, when in the country!"

"Oh, I'm not talking about the millionaire 'lodge in the wilderness' stuff," said Mr. Jarr. "I'm talking of camping out under an old canvas tent not too far from town, but yet far enough away to feel you are a gypsy."

"I think that is a grand idea!" cried Mrs. Jarr. "Do you know that great big vacuum bottle I bought at the auction sale last winter. It holds at least a quart, and yet you made fun of me when I bought it! But I told you it would come in handy some day, and now you see it has!"

"But I'm not thinking of camping out in a vacuum bottle," remarked Mr. Jarr, for he saw his chances of getting a week in the woods with Gus and Rangle and the rest vanishing into thin air.

"I'm not speaking of camping in a vacuum bottle, either," said Mrs. Jarr. "But what I do say is that it now comes in handy to take along with us A vacuum bottle will keep things to drink hot or cold for 72 hours!"

"Who wants to keep anything to drink for 72 hours?" asked Mr. Jarr. "And why not bring a vacuum cleaner with us?"

"Well, I dont' see why not!" Mrs. Jarr retorted. "I know that before Mrs. Stryver got her electric cooker installed in her camp she nearly had a fire from a gas stove, so that's why I say a gas stove is dangerous in the forest, and if we are going to live near nature's heart we shouldn't expect electric lights or hot and cold water on every floor—only I don't think Mrs. Stryver's lodge, 'Camp Potluck,' has more than one story, but the ceiling must be very high from what she says about hanging Persian rugs on the walls, as well as having them on the floor, and, as she says, they lead a life of savagery in the wilds, for they never take but one motor car with them, although they use the launch on the lake to take friends for afternoon tango [illegible] at night. So I think if we have the vacuum bottle that will be enough, except, of course, a fireless cooker!"

"Oh, we don't want to rough it to that extent!" said Mr. Jarr with mock seriousness. "Surely we'll take portable stationary washtub and a tiled kitchenette with us?"

"Mrs. Stryver says she chose where she did because the color of the woodwork, being silver birch and bird's-eye maple, matches the Japanese men servants so wonderfully. Of course, we wouldn't camp out that way, but at least, if we have a camp, it should be in some nice neighborhood where little Emma could keep up her pinao lessons, and where it wouldn't be dangerous for our Willi , because he's at the age now when he's so daring.

"I'd be afraid to take him down on Uncle Henry's farm this summer, because, you remember, he'd run right after those wild rabbits, and once he attacked a squirrel that was running along a fence with a stick—that is, Willie had the stick. So this year, as he's so bold, I would prefer not to go on a dangerous farm, or anything like that, and I think your idea of camping out is a very good one.

"But you must pick a nice place to camp—one not near any water where the children might be in danger from bullfrogs and other dreadful animals of that sort! And, of course, we shouldn't be near any woods, because the wild cries of the insects at night might make me think they are going to jump out the dark and tear me to pieces! And even if there are only a tree or two, you know how afraid I am of trees—trees always attract the lightning and caterpillars!"

"Do not be alarmed," said Mr. Jarr, soothingly. "I know a picturesque and ruined old brickyard on the outskirts of town that has all the modern conveniences for life in the open, as you prefer it. There shall we pitch our bungaloo!"

Why some flats next door don't always stay rented.

The Reason.

"IS your wife going abroad again this year?"

"No, she heard someone say travel broadened one."

Extract From the Minutes: All were in favor of the motion."

THEN—THEY TURNED AROUND.

Why Cupid Made It June.

"THE world of sweethearts wants a boon,"
Said Cupid, "and they want it soon.
So, since the time is opportune,
I'll make a wedding month of June."

The roses reddest blush in June,
And June nights have the mellowest moon—
Young lovers, when its light is strewn,
Enjoy a sort of silver "spoon."

When poets put their lyres in tune
To sing a nuptial song or tune
From discord they may keep immune
By sticking to the rhymes of JUNE:

Besides such words as "boon" and "soon,"
And others in above lines shewn,
The best of all is right in tune—
And that, of course, is HONEYMOON!

A Nice Distinction.

IN regard to the question of preference as between bachelor and benedicts, it is always pleasant to revert to the delicate distinction set forth by Gen. Lafayette in a conversation during his second visit to America. He shook hands with 3000 men in one day, says the legend, and used but seven words in all. He asked each one: "Are you married?" If the answer was yes, he exclaimed: "Fortunate fellow!" If no, "Lucky dog!" After a long levee, a friend asked how the general could reconcile his congratulations to wedded and single men alike. The Frenchman laughed and answered: "Why, my dear boy, can you not perceive the vast difference between a lucky dog and a fortunate fellow?"

Don't Theater Managers Have a Hard Time of It?

THE theatrical manager leaned wearily against the desk in the office of the hotel.

"Well, how goes it?" said the clerk.

The manager shrugged his shoulders without replying.

"Good business?"

The manager evaded the question. "I'm afraid we may have to close before the season's over. My star's sick. When she comes to the theater at night she's hardly able to get through her work. She says she can't eat anything."

Just then the telephone bell rang.

The clerk turned to answer it. After listening for a moment he said: "Wait till I get a pencil. I've got to write that down."

As he wrote he repeated: "Mock turtle soup, soft-shell crabs, porterhouse steak, half a chicken, mashed potatoes, peas, string beans, tomato salad, ice cream, strawberries and coffee. Whew!" Then he shouted into the phone: "How many is that dinner for? One? Whew!"

Then he turned to the manager. "That's your 'star's' dinner," he said quietly.

Her Query.

A GAILY gowned and garrulous housemaid sat down by an acquaintance on a trolley and at once said, "Hello, Sadie! Where you livin' now?"

"Nowheres," was the reply.

"How's that?"

"I'm married."

"You ain't!"

"Sure thing. Look at that!"

She held up her ungloved left hand in triumph; for there on the third finger was a shining new wedding ring.

Staring at it in wonder for a moment, the other girl asked: "Well, who got stung?"

The Same Thing.

BROWN, idle through slack times, started to tramp to Buffalo by way of the Erie Canal to look for a job.

"He met on his way a good many canal boats coming up and down, and finally, stopping a canal boat captain, he offered to work his passage.

"The captain took him on and set him to leading the horses along the towpath.

"He led the horses for two days, thinking hard. On the third day he had thought it all out and he resigned.

"'By the powers,' he said, 'I might as well walk as work my passage.'"—Washington Star.

WELL, honey, our honeymoon's over."

"Why, dear, do you say that?"

"Well, I've just balanced up my checkbook and it's tipping over backward."

SHARP HINT

CONVERSATION hung fire badly There were several matters which the young man wished to discuss—one in particular—but somehow he could not muster the necessary courage, and the silence became really painful.

"I was speaking with your father last night," he said at last, somewhat inanely.

"Oh, were you?" answered the sweet young thing, lowering her eyes. "Er—what were you—er—talking about?"

"About the likelihood of war in Mexico. Your father said that if there was fighting he hoped it would soon be over."

The sweet young thing smiled.

"Yes," she remarked, "I know he's very much opposed to long engagements."—Cleveland Leader.

Not on the Map.

MRS. NORMAN had a maid, Jane, who had a lover in the army. One day, after receiving a letter from him she sought her mistress and asked if she might see a map. A while after she returned to Mrs. Norman again and said she could not find the place where her lover was.

"Where is it, do you say, Jane?" asked the mistress.

"Duranceville," replied Jane after another careful perusal of the letter.

Mrs. Norman searched the map, but no such place could be found.

"Jane," she said, "please let me see the part of the letter which gives the name of the place where he is."

Jane complied, and Mrs. Norman read: "I am in durance vile, but hope soon to be sent home."—National Monthly.

Welfare Work.

HAVE you any part of an automobile that you don't want?"

"You know how our grandmothers used to make crazy quilts for the needy?"

"Yes."

"On the same principle I am trying to assemble an automobile for a poor woman who has none."
